New Leader Of Hunger Marchers Arrested In London

POLICE RAID QUARTERS IN EARLY MORN

Eight Connected With Riots
Last Week Sentenced to 3 Months in Jail

ARMY IS DISORGANIZED

Authorities Threaten to Forcibly Eject Hunger
Marchers Saturday

LONDON, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Striking again while the invading "hunger army" was disorganized, police today arrested Sid Elias, second leader of the demonstrators, in a new drive to destroy an alleged communist group dominating the unemployed.

Elias succeeded to leadership after rioting had led to the arrest of Steve Hannington, communist and original leader of the disorders.

They moved with the same speed and precision as in the raid which led to arrest of Hannington. The demonstrators' headquarters was occupied and Elias was escorted to police station.

Meanwhile, eight who had been remained in connection with the Hyde Park riots Thursday, were sentenced to terms of up to three months at the Brixton prison.

The lightest punishment was a 40 shillings fine. One man was committed to trial and another was acquitted.

The use of force by authorities during the attempted march on parliament Tuesday, coupled with the arrest of W. A. L. Hannington, leader of the marchers, apparently has disconcerted the marchers. They remained passive during the last 24 hours and no immediate plans for future mass demonstrations were announced.

The majority of the unemployed who marched on London from various parts of England, Scotland and Wales, coupled against the means test applied to the jobless, threatened to remain in London, however, until their petition of relief is presented to parliament.

The question of their dispersal was the biggest problem confronting authorities.

The hope their leaders would arrange to take them home was not too strong, since it was estimated that they numbered 10,000.

RUTH NICHOLS ESCAPES WHEN PLANE CRASHES

Monoplane Wrecked Just as Famous Aviatix Prepares to Takeoff

FLOYD BENNETT FIELD, N. Y., Nov. 3.—(UP)—Ruth Nichols, 31, escaped when her monoplane crashed today when she was preparing to takeoff. The plane was wrecked in the crash, but Nichols was not injured and she averted a possible fire by turning off the ignition switch as her plane dived off the concrete runway into a ground loop. Miss Nichols appeared to lose control just as the plane was ready to rise.

The ship, a monoplane recently reconstructed, turned over on its side as it left the runway. Clarence Chamberlin, transatlantic flier, and others at the field helped Miss Nichols crawl from the wreckage.

The aviatix had designated her planned dash across the continent a "campaign flight" in the interests of the Republican party.

The flight had been arranged with the hope that the aviatix would set a speed record.

"I'm through with night flying," Miss Nichols told friends as she prepared to go to her home in Rye, N. Y. She attributed the crash to the heavy fuel load, 625 gallons of gasoline and 32 gallons of oil, and the fact that the field was in semi darkness. It was her third mishap in recent months.

Drinks His Own Medicine and Drops Dead

MERCEDES, Tex., Nov. 3.—(UP)—Victim of his willingness to "take his own medicine," Dr. H. R. Carrido is dead.

The 53-year-old Mercedes physician dropped dead after swallowing two compounds he prescribed for Mrs. Lucinda Loya De Candu.

Immediately after she took the medicine, Mrs. De Candu expired.

"You have killed her—you have killed her," screamed relatives grouped about the bedside.

"But no," Dr. Carrido remonstrated. "It was her ailment—not my medicine. See, I will take the same doses she had."

He poured himself the same portions and drank them. The same swift reaction which claimed the life of his patient brought the doctor down dead.

GREAT WAVE OF BARTERING IS SWEEPING U. S.

Shortage of Money Responsible for People Reviving Swapping

BY THE UNITED PRESS
(Copyright 1932, by United Press)

A GREAT WAVE of bartering is sweeping the country. A shortage of money and accumulations of surpluses in commodities have combined to bring about a revival of elemental commerce—the "swap" of one article for another without the use of money.

A nationwide survey by the United Press discloses that bartering is a part of community life in many parts of the United States. In some localities it is organized and haphazard, but in others it exists thousands in a well-organized movement.

In Utah a farmer trades a bushel of potatoes for a haircut. In Louisiana a farmer boys pay their tuition in a state university with farm produce. In Kansas City, a workman trades his labor for food and clothing.

In the middlewest, bartering and "payment in kind" is more extensive than in the east. Farmers are paying for machinery with wheat and stock keepers are accepting farm produce for merchandise.

The largest of the movements is that of the Natural Development Association embracing eight thousand farmers and workmen of Utah and Southern Idaho. The association is making a survey of the bartering movement.

Stoves, Fuel Needed By Unemployed

Appeals made by officers of the Unemployed Association of Santa Ana for wood or oil stoves and fuel for the unemployed during the past week, have resulted in the donation of but one wood stove, it was announced today by William Ruddiman.

Members of the unemployed group are badly in need of stoves for heating the homes of families that are without the use of gas, officers pointed out. Wood for the stoves also is needed.

Returns In First Days Show Gain

Few Complaints Are Made Regarding Amount of Bills This Year

ACCORDING TO figures available today at the office of Tax Collector John Lamb, tax payments this year will exceed last year's figure. According to Lamb the first two days collection on first installment taxes closed last night with $52,355.65 paid into the treasury. For the same period last year payments totaled $45,338.

On November 1, the first day first installments were due a total of $19,756.04 was paid into the tax collector's office. On the same day last year $15,471 was paid. Yesterday, the second day taxes could be paid, $32,599.61 was paid. On the second day last year payments totaled $29,867.

Lamb said this morning that the most noticeable thing about tax collections this year is the fact that little or no complaint regarding the amount of the tax bills or difficulties in making payments have been heard. Practically the only comment made by taxpayers, he said, is appreciation that, as a general rule, taxes are lower this year.

Lamb today again urged taxpayers to not wait until the last week first installment taxes may be paid but to come in as early as possible and avoid the last minute rush that always congests the office during the closing days of payment.

First installment taxes become delinquent December 5. After that date a 10 per cent penalty will be attached. Payments must be in the office of Tax Collector Lamb by midnight on that date or they will be considered delinquent. The fact that they are in the mail, Lamb said today, will prevent delinquency.

Ends Life By Leap From Empire Bldg.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—An unidentified man today leaped from the topmost pinnacle of the Empire State building, world's tallest building, and fell to his death on the observation floor, 17 stories below.

The man was seen at the base of the dirigible mooring mast at the 103rd floor. Before he could be stopped, he leaped. The observation floor, a parapet going entirely around the building, is on the 86th floor.

He was the first man to use the towering heights of the building for suicide since its completion. He also was the first man to die of a fall 86 stories above the street.

WILL RETURN TO COAST TO CAST BALLOT

Will Speak Friday and Saturday in Midwest and Then Rush to Palo Alto

NO SPEECHES HERE

No Plans Made by President After Election; May Return by Panama

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(UP)—President Hoover started west today for campaign speeches through midwestern states and a dash to the west coast which will take him to his Palo Alto, Calif., home in time to vote on election day. The president's special train left Washington at 4:20 p. m.

MERGER OF RIVER LINES IS REPORTED

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 3.—(UP)—Merger of two river transportation lines will be announced as soon as the state railroad commission grants permission, it was stated here today.

They are the Larkin Transportation company of San Francisco and Sacramento, and the Higgins Transportation company of Stockton. The railroad commission's approval is needed to permit unified operations by vessels between points on the San Francisco bay and the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers.

The announcement was made here by M. H. Larkin, manager of the Larkin company, after application had been made with the railroad commission on a new rate schedule for freight.

REPORT BIG LOSS WITH FAKE RACES

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Nov. 3.—(UP)—The loss of $7500 on a race horse swindle was reported by a Calaveras county rancher and his wife to police here today.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Nelson of Copperopolis, said they had been induced to bet $7500 on a horse at Tanforan, by the promise they would "clean up a fortune."

The men who collected the money gave the names of C. Thompson and Walwright, Nelson said. They first approached Nelson with a view of buying his ranch, later telling him of finding a pocketbook with some "inside dope" on the races that would make them all rich.

The group met at the Hotel Senator here yesterday, and the $7500 was paid over.

HOOVER MAKES GAINS IN MANY POINTS, REPORT

However, Roosevelt Still Holding Advantage in Nation as Whole

(COPYRIGHT, 1932 BY UNITED PRESS)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(UP)—According to reports to the United Press in a national impartial political survey, President Hoover has made strong gains recently in some sections. These reports, however, still indicate a national advantage for Governor Roosevelt.

Mr. Hoover's chances were reported improved in his home state after the Reconstruction Finance Corporation helped the San Francisco bridge project and Los Angeles public works.

Opposition of Senator Hiram Johnson is one of the highest obstacles that Republicans count on a heavy excess of Republican registrations. The president's trip home, announced after the reports were compiled, was urged by his western advisers as a gesture to clinch the state.

Mr. Hoover has pushed some states, including Indiana and West Virginia, into the doubtful column, according to these reports. He also has benefited unexpectedly from the speeches of Alfred E. Smith in some sections, such as New Jersey. If Roosevelt loses that state, these reports say, it will be due largely to an adverse effect from the recent Newark speech of Smith.

On the other hand, Smith is credited with having jarred Massachusetts and Rhode Island out of a safe anchorage in the Hoover column and made them uncertain.

The shift toward Mr. Hoover was reported strong in the vital block of east central states including Illinois, Indiana and Ohio. In

AUTOPSY ORDERED IN COMFORT DEATH

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—(UP)—An autopsy was ordered today to determine the manner of death of Will Levington Comfort, well-known American novelist and short story writer.

Comfort, who was 54, died last night two hours after entering a hospital. Suddenness of his death led to a coroner's investigation.

A native of Kalamazoo, Mich., Comfort was popular with many American readers of western fiction. His list of works included many "best-sellers," one of which was his first, "Rutledge Rides Alone," published in 1910.

GOV. ROOSEVELT BEGINS FINAL CAMPAIGN TOUR

Nominee Plans Brief Invasion of New Jersey and Then to New York

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 3.—(UP)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt embarked today on the final tour of his drive for the presidency. The Democratic nominee planned to make a brief invasion of New Jersey tonight and then swing back into New York City for the first of three addresses that will wind up the campaign he launched on the day he was selected by the convention at Chicago.

Roosevelt was to motor from the executive mansion, stopping first at his farm home, Hyde Park, for lunch with his mother before proceeding to New York.

From New York he will go over to the Jersey side to greet the Democrats of Jersey City and Newark, although no addresses in that state are scheduled. On his return he will be driven to the Metropolitan opera house where he will speak to the Republicans-for-Roosevelt league.

He is expected to renew his appeal for a "new deal" in government and again extend an invitation to those persons of all parties disaffected with the leadership of the Republicans to join with him on November 8.

Friday night he will speak from

JEWELS WORTH MILLION LEFT IN BIG ESTATE

Edith McCormick Personal Property Inventory is Filed With Judge

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(UP)—An inventory of the personal property left by the late Edith Rockefeller McCormick, with a total value of $1,032,345.25, was filed today with Judge Henry Horner by Attorney Charles S. Cutting.

The list, reading like the inventory of some monarch's treasure, filled 361 closely typed pages and gave a posthumous insight into the exquisite tastes of the famous daughter of John D. Rockefeller.

Mrs. McCormick died in a suite in the Drake hotel last August 25. She had closed her Lake Shore drive mansion after financial reverses depleted her fortune, once estimated as the largest of any woman in the world.

The most valuable items in the inventory were jewels, many of them crown pieces from the collections of European royalty. Among the pieces, each popularly estimated to be worth much more than the total valuation set in the inventory, were the emerald necklace said once to have belonged to Empress Catherine of Russia, and a diamond and pearl necklace reputed to be one of the finest in existence.

BRUCE BARTON IS SUED BY EMPLOYE

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Bruce Barton, author and advertising writer, was charged with defamation of character in an action for $250,000 filed by Mrs. Frances King, a former employee of his firm. Barton, served with a civil arrest warrant, was released on $1000 bail.

According to papers in the case, an alienation of affections action was undertaken by Mrs. King's husband, Hugh Rodgers. King four years ago, this resulted in a settlement after which, according to Mrs. King's charges, Barton discredited her with prospective employers to her disadvantage. Among other allegations in the case, she claimed Barton once charged her with working a "badger game" on him.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(To the Editor of The Register:) Don't you all kinder wish that the President of our country wouldn't have to run around all over the land getting up on a soap box to shout his merits like a backwoods Congressman running for re-election?

That's why a President's term should be for six years. No re-election. And be retired for life on half salary. Then he serves with dignity right up to the finish. And don't have to take part in this mess of promises, accusations and ballyhoo.

We thought when the radio was perfected and everybody could hear a speech that it wouldn't be necessary to drag a President around over the country like a circus. But no, the State leaders must satisfy their vanity by having him appear "in person" in their State.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

THREE GUESSES

EXTRADITION PACT WITH GREECE MADE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—(UP)—The state department announced today that ratification of the U. S.-Greek extradition treaty signed May 6, 1931, had been exchanged. This puts the treaty in full effect and presumably makes possible the extradition of Samuel Insull, Sr., Chicago utilities magnate, from Athens to the United States.

Extradition of Insull, who has been in Athens for several weeks, has been impossible until now because the treaty was not applicable. Ratifications were exchanged secretly between Secretary of State Stimson and the Greek legation here last Tuesday.

Officials kept the matter confidential until today it was explained, in order to put machinery of extradition into effect before Insull could be warned that the treaty had come into force.

VANDERBILT WINNER OF HIS OWN TROPHY

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(UP)—P. Hal Sims and his partners held the team-of-four championship of the contract bridge world today after defeating a team led by David Bernstein in the Vanderbilt cup tournament.

The Sims victory marked the first time Harold S. Vanderbilt, donor of the trophy, has won his own cup. Vanderbilt, with Willard S. Kern and Waldemar Von Zedwitz, was a member of the Sims team. Burnstein's partners were Howard Schenken, Charles Lockridge and Richard L. Frey.

The Sims quartet amassed a lead of 6445 points after 60 hands of play, overcoming the slight lead of 225 points held by the Burnstein team at the halfway marking the finals. Burnstein previously had eliminated Ely Culbertson and his partners in the semi-finals.

QUAKES REPORTED IN SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4.—(UP)—A heavy, slow earthquake shook San Francisco at 10:55 a. m. today. The tremor lasted approximately 15 seconds.

Apparently no damage was done to the downtown section of the city. The quake lasted long enough to develop a sluggish, rocking motion. Keyboards on the sending equipment in the United Press relay swung so that continued transmission was difficult.

STATE SEEKING TO GAIN TOLL BRIDGE

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Nov. 3.—(UP)—A movement by which the state of California will acquire the Carquinez toll bridge on the Sacramento-Oakland highway was started today by Roland A. Vandegrift, state director of finance.

A study of methods by which the state may become owner of the bridge and reduce or eliminate tolls will be sought at the next meeting of the California toll bridge authority, Vandegrift said.

George E. Sheldon of Oakland is general chairman of the Carquinez bridge campaign committee, leading the movement.

PURSE STRINGS IN RENO TIGHTENING

RENO, Nev., Nov. 3.—(UP)—Purse strings tightened perceptibly today as Nevada entered the third day of its two weeks "financial holiday" with 18 of the 25 banks in the state closed.

Hope for relief was based largely on the findings of two reconstruction finance corporation representatives sent here to investigate a $2,000,000 loan to stabilize the 12 banks controlled by George Wingfield.

There was talk of a special legislative session to provide for a state bond issue to aid the Wingfield chain of banks if the loan is refused. The banks handle the bulk of Nevada's banking business and hold $17,000,000 in deposits.

HIGH SIERRAS ARE COVERED BY SNOW

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 3.—(UP)—A blanket of snow covered the high Sierras today as the result of the first storm of the winter in the mountain regions.

Snow fell yesterday in the mountains north of Truckee and Auburn, and east almost to Reno. Rain accompanied the snowstorm in some sections, drenching the foothills throughout most of the Sacramento valley.

In the Lake Tahoe region the snow was several inches deep and motorists on the Transcontinental highway between Truckee and Auburn were forced to use chains.

Colder weather was forecast throughout the mountain area today.

FOREIGN NEWS AT A GLANCE

STEAMER REFLOATED
OSLO, Norway, Nov. 3.—(UP)—The Russian steamer Tovarishch Stalin, which went aground on a reef near Cape Linne, in the Arctic ocean, was reported in contact with rescue steamers today and passengers were believed safe.

PRINCESS RETURNS
LONDON, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Princess Ingrid of Sweden, whose visit to London revived rumors of her possible engagement to Prince George of the Prince of Wales, left for Brussels by a regular passenger plane today. A few friends saw her off, but neither of the British princes was among them.

ASKS EXTRADITION
ATHENS, Nov. 3.—(UP)—The United States legation today requested the extradition of Samuel Insull, after exchange of ratification of the extradition treaty between the Greek and American governments.

Simultaneously, the minister of the interior ordered closer surveillance of Insull, although his arrest had not been ordered late today.

KILLS HUGE BEAR
QUEBEC, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Gaston Marquis, a Quebec hunter, killed a 475-pound bear with a revolver after two hunting companions fainted when the animal charged.

HELENE TO ITALY

BANK ROBBERS GET AWAY WITH $10,000

KANE, Pa., Nov. 3.—(UP)—Barrington escaped with $10,000 to $15,000 from the Gold Standard National bank, Marienville, Pa., today after holding the cashier and three other persons captive all night until the time lock on the vault opened.

The robbers held up the cashier, E. R. Johnson, his wife and daughter, and a friend, Fred Pickens, as the four entered an apartment over the bank last night.

They were held until this morning. The time lock opened automatically at 7:50 a. m. and the robbers carried the money from the vault to their car, leaving the bank 30 minutes later.

The emerald necklace, containing an emerald weighing 119 karats, nine other large emeralds, and 1637 diamonds was valued at present market prices at $182,966.13.

The pearl necklace, containing 25 large matched pearls, three large diamonds and two flexible bars of diamonds, each with 169 round and 12 square stones, was valued at $436,643.66.

Total value of the jewels, including a platinum, diamond-studded wrist plate, a tiara set with 475 diamonds, a diamond sparkling with 1125 diamonds, ear drops, bracelets, rings, etc., was set at $777,567.39.

Other items listed included rare manuscripts and books dating from the middle ages, 16th century tapestries, 19 lace table cloths, a Persian rug known as the "Emperor's Carpet" which once belonged to an Austrian emperor, Persian furniture, Statuaries, fine paintings and objects of art, a set of sterling silver dinner plates.

At her death, Mrs. McCormick's checking account in a Chicago bank contained $948.10.

tion has two floors of office space in Salt Lake City. In the association are doctors, cleaners, merchants, dentists, mechanics, geologists, plumbers, craftsmen and tradesmen of all kinds. They exchange their services and products among one another, using scrip issued by the association as the medium of exchange. The association boasts it has made its members economically self-sufficient and independent.

In Montana bartering was reported as common. In Chippewa, an example, a farmer traded two dozen eggs, five pounds of butter and 10 bushels of wheat for five gallons of gasoline. Banks accept wheat in payment on loans and flour mills accept grain in payment for grinding grain into flour. Newspapers accept wheat for subscriptions.

Oklahoma City has its "shirt-sleeve exchange" where the unemployed are sent out to work for people who pay in goods rather than money. An unemployed tree surgeon received 10 cents in cash, a hot dinner, a peck of potatoes, a shirt, two coats, eight baby dresses, six children's hats, three pairs of shoes, and one pair of girl's galoshes for five hours work. The exchange takes these articles and undertakes to obtain for them articles the tree surgeon can use.

Los Angeles has a cooperative exchange with more than 4000 members. It operates on a system of debit and credit. A performer labor for B and is given credit with which he may obtain food or clothing provided by C in exchange for services that were rendered by D. This movement has spread to a half dozen small towns near Los Angeles.

In Nebraska newspapers accept farm produce for subscriptions and in a number of communities doctors, dentists and merchants take produce in lieu of cash.

In San Francisco the barter idea is used by charitable institutions to provide for the needy unemployed.

In Abilene, Corpus Christi, and Henderson, Texas, there are monthly "swap" days when the farmers come to town with what they have to swap and return with wagons loaded with the articles they need. A number of Texas schools accept produce as tuition.

Kansas City has an organization similar to the one in Los Angeles. The state of Washington and Minneapolis have organizations similar to the shirt-sleeve exchange of Oklahoma City.

The petition which the marchers had prepared for parliament was seized by police at Charing Cross station where the marchers had checked the petition papers in the parcel room.

The upshot of more than a week of the "occupation" of London by the hunger marchers was about 200 persons injured, few of them seriously; some shop windows broken, and more than 100 arrests made.

There are nearly 2,000,000 unemployed in Britain. They have been supported by the dole system, or national unemployment insurance, the world's largest experiment in providing for the jobless.

Sixteen arrested in yesterday's disorder at the Westminster workhouse were remanded for a week in police court today after a some in which one of their leaders shouted arguments at the magistrate until the latter remarked: "This man's behavior is such that I cannot continue the hearing."

BRIGHT SPOTS IN BUSINESS

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 3.—The board of directors of the New England Mutual Life Insurance company in session here yesterday voted distribution of the regular dividend scale for the full year 1933 with no change in the interest rate on deposits, it is announced by G. W. Smith, president, who said nothing could add more to the persistency of business at this time than the action taken by his company.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(UP)—American Commercial Alcohol Co. reported net income for the nine months ended Sept. 30 was $14,822, compared with $262,828 in the corresponding 1931 period.

WASHINGTON—Employment in main during September continued the upswing started in August, according to a bulletin issued by the department of labor.

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—United Carbon Co. reported for the third quarter a net profit of $42,968, compared with a net loss of $39,741 in the third quarter of last year.

ST. LOUIS—October freight carloadings of the Missouri Pacific railroad were reported at 104,814 cars, a gain of 11,149 cars over September.

CORNING, N. Y.—Corning Glass Works recalled 170 men to work because of a sharp increase in orders.

SAN FRANCISCO—Pacific Gas & Electric Co. reported net income for the quarter ended Sept. 30 was $5,331,967, compared with $5,272,256 in the preceding three months.

MERCHANTS TO HOOPER MAKES PLAN FESTIVAL GAINS IN MANY FOR HOLIDAYS POINTS, REPORT

Plans for active holiday festivities similar to the successful Merchants' Jubilee which was staged recently, will be outlined at the first meeting of the Santa Ana Merchants association since the group separated from the chamber of commerce, at the Santa Ana cafe at 7:15 o'clock tonight, it was announced by Manager A. Cavalli.

Harold Wright, trade commissioner for the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, will be the featured speaker. He will talk on the subject, "How to Stimulate Holiday Business and Increase Retail Sales." Wright is recognized as an authority on the subject which he will discuss before the merchants.

Other speakers who will make brief talks are Bruce Switzer, James Harding, Walter Swanberger, Ivie Stein, J. C. Horton, Claude McDowell, Carl Stein, Jerry Hall and other well known merchants.

H. E. Willard, president of the association, will preside at the meeting. Following the talks, the meeting will be thrown open for discussion by merchants on plans for the holiday festival.

The Santa Ana Merchants association is now located in new offices in the Arcade building, where directors will meet twice a month North Main street. The board of the new headquarters.

speeches and some 20 back-platform talks in Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Wisconsin alone. The major addresses will be at Springfield, Ill., at 8:30 p. m., tomorrow; St. Louis at 7:30 tomorrow night; and St. Paul, Minn., Saturday night.

From St. Paul, Mr. Hoover heads across the continent to California "not for the purpose of carrying on a political campaign among my neighbors, but to satisfy that proper instinct inherent in every American to cast his vote among his neighbors at his own home."

The first stop on the itinerary to St. Louis was at Martinsburg, W. Va., at 5:56 p. m. today. He will make four stops in all during the afternoon and evening.

On the way to Palo Alto, the president is to deliver the traditional election eve speech by the chief executive to the people, to go to the polls Tuesday. It is possible will be made from some small place in the Rocky mountains or far western desert country—a dramatic touch to the campaign finale.

After California, the president has no plans at present, it was asserted at the White House. However, that win or lose he would return by way of the Panama canal, getting back just in time for the opening of congress early in December.

The president's message to Pacific coast voters was delivered over a long distance telephone hookup from a banquet room here where 200 "native sons" were celebrating "California day."

Appealing for support of California, Oregon and Washington, he emphasized the benefits of the Hawley-Smoot tariffs and declared a democratic administration would reduce duties now produced within your borders could be produced on a commercial basis.

"Every man who knows the traditional policy of the Democratic party knows perfectly well that products will rot on the farms and in our forests under such a regime," he declared. "We would go back to conditions of depression worse than that through which we have passed."

Mr. Hoover cited the assistance given to far western states through Reconstruction Finance Corporation and farm board loans. Federal public works expenditures, and organization of agricultural credit corporation branches.

He also reiterated previous denials of two "calumnies being circulated by Democratic agents" in California: that he had foreign business interests and that a ranch in which he was interested had refused to employ white workers. The president said he had had no interests abroad since he entered public service 15 years ago.

PLAN RALLY AT PARK SATURDAY FOR MCKINNEY

A rally at Birch park was announced today for next Saturday at 3 p. m. on behalf of R. Z. McKinney, Democratic candidate for congress.

Dry forces of the Nineteenth congressional district are joining with veterans, ministers, labor representatives, the Democratic organization and McKinney Republican clubs of the district to deliver a smashing endorsement of their candidate for congress, at the eve of election, according to the announcement.

McKinney himself will address the meeting and other speakers will be there to urge his election, it was announced.

Plans for the rally were going forward rapidly today, with 300 workers engaged, by telephone and automobile, in spreading the word of the event, that will culminate a district-wide campaign for the young Santa Ana lawyer.

Word that one hundred automobile loads of McKinney boosters will come to the rally from Riverside and San Bernardino counties was brought home by J. E. Russell, of Santa Ana, who has been extending the organization of McKinney Republican clubs through the three counties of the district.

Mussell reported formation of new McKinney clubs at Riverside, Redlands, San Bernardino, Ontario and Garden Grove, clubs having been organized previously at Fullerton, Anaheim, Placentia and Santa Ana.

county, resting their hope of protection against the National Economy League program, that would take compensation from thousands of veterans, upon McKinney's stand against the league program, are giving him organized backing through formation of the Non-Partisan Veterans Organization, headed by Jack Sterrett, of Colton. It is reported.

The Redlands McKinney club is headed by Merwin Fowles, with Prof. Robertson, of Redlands university, as vice president. Among the members is J. S. Edwards, widely known dry leader. J. M. Ferguson, prominent Riverside merchant, heads the McKinney club of that city. Mrs. Estelle Harper, leader in the Orange county W. C. T. U., is head of the Garden Grove McKinney club. The Fullerton McKinney club has Dr. E. H. Brunemeier as its president.

C. M. Burns, chairman of the San Bernardino county post, United Servicemen's club and former state officer in the American Legion, has announced that the San Bernardino post of the United Servicemen's organization has endorsed McKinney and that a large delegation will attend the mass meeting.

Death Notices

A WORD OF COMFORT

You were born to serve. God would not have permitted you to know sorrow if you could have done as much for others along pleasanter paths. Think of your grief as a stewardship. As you bear your sorrow bravely, God's triumphant power will be manifested through you. Show the doubting world what God does through one who trusts Him!

LOPEZ—At Monrovia, November 2, 1932, Alonzo William Lopez, aged 32 years. Mr. Lopez was born in Santa Ana and was the son of Mrs. Olive Lopez; brother of Mrs. Isabel Fages, Highland Park, and Mrs. Olive L. Blum, Hollywood. He was the son of Geo. Young and Ed Walte, of Santa Ana. He had spent the last three years in the Philippine Islands, having returned but a week ago. Funeral services will be held Saturday, November 5, at 10 a. m. from St. Joseph's Catholic church, Smith and Tuill in charge.

(Funeral Notice)
TITUS—Funeral services for Lyman Titus, who passed away in Tustin, on November 1, 1932, will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow at the White chapel, in Azusa, to which place removal was made today by Harrell and Brown.

BRUSH—In Anaheim, November 2, 1932, Mrs. Georgia A. Brush, aged 52 years, wife of Fred N. Brush, 528 West Chestnut, mother of Leona and Dorothy Brush; daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Roades, of Santa Ana, and sister of John L. Roades, Coalinga, Cal.; Calvin Roades, Santa Fe Springs; Henry Roades, Santa Ana; Mrs. Grace V. Bennett, Pomona; Mrs. Mabel Hummel, Santa Ana, and Mrs. Catherine Bonham, of Pomona. Services will be held from Winbiggers' funeral home, 609 North Main street, Friday, November 4, at 2:30 o'clock. Interment in Central Memorial park cemetery.

BUSINESS MEN DECIDE AGAINST STORE HOLIDAY

Santa Ana merchants will keep their stores open on Armistice Day. It was decided at a specially called meeting of directors of the Business Men's association which was held last night to consider the question of closing.

A committee from the local Legion post headed by James B. Tucker, commander, made the request on behalf of the Legion that stores in Santa Ana close on that day.

In the discussion that followed, it was shown that the cost of doing business went on whether stores were open for business or closed, and that this overhead amounted to a large sum which in the past has been an indirect donation to Armistice Day as a holiday which benefited no one.

Blame Los Angeles Action
The Legion members recognized the fairness of the business men and recognized that it has been unable to accomplish the closing of the Los Angeles metropolitan area, it was said.

In regard to the matter, the following resolution was adopted by the directors:
"Resolved: That the board of directors of the Business Men's association of Santa Ana ratify the agreement that was made with the American Legion at a joint meeting of the two bodies held in Santa Ana, October 21, 1930, as set forth in the following resolution:
"That this board of directors recommend to the merchants of Santa Ana the closing of all places of business on Armistice day this year, and further recommend to the incoming board of directors that all places of business close on Armistice day in 1931, in the expectation that by 1932 sufficient sentiment will be aroused among the merchants in the metropolitan area of Los Angeles for a complete closing on that day to relieve the handicap imposed on Orange county merchants, and in the further expectation that if this can not be done by 1932, then the merchants of Santa Ana be free to follow the recommendations of the board of directors then in office."

Recommendations
"That inasmuch as many merchants have experienced their wishes not to close their places of business on Armistice day in the face of present day conditions, this board of directors of the Business Men's association is unable to make a request upon merchants to close for that day. "Recommendation is made that all stores should excuse, for the period of the Legion exercises, all employees who desire to actively participate in those exercises. "And further recommend that all persons memorialize that day by cessation of business activities for one minute at 11 o'clock."

FARM BUREAU CHOOSES NEW HEADS TODAY

Election of officers and directors of the Orange County Farm Bureau is scheduled for this afternoon during the annual meeting of the board of directors of the Farm Bureau.

Officers of the Orange County Farm Bureau during the year just ending were: John W. Crill, president; Felton S. Browning, vice president; Roland D. Flaherty, executive secretary; S. W. Stanley, treasurer; and J. A. Smiley, state director.

During the morning and early afternoon sessions reports of the various standing committees and departments were submitted for the approval of the board of directors. In his report as secretary Flaherty outlined attendance at meetings of the directors, changes in the board of directors during the year and membership records. He listed membership in the farm bureau by farm centers and showed a membership this year of 1309. Activities of the farm centers and various departments of the bureau as well as accomplishments during the year also were touched upon by Flaherty in his report.

The year's work of the Citrus Department was outlined by Holmes Bishop, chairman of that organization. In his report he told of the year's program and reported of business done by the department. A large portion of Bishop's report was devoted to an outline of the citrus marketing situation and efforts made by the department to stabilize this industry. Reports of the tax committee were submitted by Felton B. Browning, chairman of that group, and Ralph McFadden reported on activities of the water committee. Dr. D. D. Wynick, chairman of the farm bureau's committee on use and supply of water submitted an extensive report embracing the entire water problem of the county.

RECOVER BODY DENY RUMORS OF S. A. YOUTH ABOUT LEASE AT SALTON SEA AT BEACH CITY

The Salton Sea yesterday gave up the body of William Smith, 16, son of Arch Smith, of 112 East Eleventh street, who was drowned four months ago, when he and a number of other youths were caught in a squall, while on tiny rafts. The other boys managed to get safely to shore, while Smith was carried out by the wind and waves.

Smith's companions gave the alarm and a searching party made up of airplanes and scores of persons in boats attempted to rescue the youth, but he was never found.

Yesterday, the body washed ashore, according to a telegram received here from the father, to his brother, Hugh Smith of 1600 Fruit street. No details of the discovery were contained in the telegram, but it is presumed that the body will be returned here for burial.

ALONZO LOPEZ DIES SUDDENLY AT MONROVIA

Word received here today of the death yesterday, in Monrovia, of Alonzo Lopez, son of Mrs. Olive Lopez of Hollywood, formerly of this city, came as a distinct shock to the family, who were unaware that the young man was seriously ill or that he had returned from his post in the Philippine Islands.

Alonzo Lopez, or "Sonny" as he will be recalled by a host of friends with whom he grew to manhood here in Santa Ana, attended the local schools finishing his education in Oregon and at Davis Agricultural school, majoring in entomology, with post graduate work at other schools and universities.

He was immediately given a responsible position with the Philippine Sugar company, and has been stationed for the past few years on the island of Negros in the Philippine group. His illness had been a development of several months' time, but following treatment in one of the island hospitals, he was pronounced cured and came home to recuperate.

The exertion of the homeward voyage weakened him, however, and immediately upon his arrival in Los Angeles on Friday, October 21, he went to a sanitarium where his death occurred quite unexpectedly yesterday.

Mrs. Lopez arrived in Santa Ana today to be with her sister, Mrs. George Young, 1515 North Main street. Funeral services for her only son will be conducted Saturday morning at 10 o'clock from St. Joseph's Catholic church.

NO. 3 OF A SERIES

Van Wyk Pledged To Serve the People

In his campaign to become Santa Ana's Supervisor, Chas. D. Van Wyk has made but one pledge—that he will SERVE THE PEOPLE of Santa Ana to the best of his ability.

He has made no promise to any individual, nor does he own allegiance to any group, organization, or clique. He is independent and free to act for the benefit of Santa Ana as he sees it.

He has character, fairness, honesty and aggressiveness, and he will represent ALL of Santa Ana, as he has served all members while a director of the Santa Ana Valley Walnut Growers Association for the past six years.

VAN WYK stands for TAX REDUCTION, and will fight aggressively for lowered costs of government consistent with the times.

VAN WYK stands for justice, and will fight for Santa Ana's fair proportion of the gas taxes we pay to the county.

VAN WYK stands for home labor, and will fight for jobs for Orange county workmen on county construction projects.

VAN WYK stands for law enforcement, and will fight for county enforcement laws if the Wright Act is repealed.

VAN WYK stands for independence, and will maintain an open mind and an accessible office for the benefit of citizens.

VAN WYK stands for SERVING THE PUBLIC, and benefiting the MAJORITY, rather than service to a small minority.

"My entire purpose in seeking this office is to represent you to the very fullest extent of my ability," he declares in a published pamphlet, "and I ask your support on that basis."

"I believe I will take to the job a fresh viewpoint which will be satisfactory and beneficial to all Santa Ana residents."

ADDRESS BY RABBI MAGNIN JOINT AFFAIR

In his public address here on Monday evening, Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin, of Los Angeles, will bring to Santa Ana the message of the progress and present needs of the country wide welfare and relief mobilization as it is being handled through the National Citizens committee.

The Magnin address is to be presented as the main feature of a community mass meeting to be held in the high school auditorium at 7:30 p.m., November 7, under the sponsorship of the leading service and other clubs of the city.

Newton D. Baker, chairman of the National Citizens committee, in announcing the Santa Ana appearance of Rabbi Magnin, declared that the address should be heard by every citizen who could possibly attend. He pointed out that the speaker is one of the best known and best liked on the west coast.

"Rabbi Magnin is extremely busy and we feel most fortunate in being able to have him address us at this time," W. J. Tway, president of the Community Chest, one of the sponsoring organizations for the gathering, said today.

Other organizations through which the meeting has been made possible are the Elbel club, Kiwanis club, Knights of the Round Table, Lions club, Ministerial association and Rotary club.

While the gathering is not intended as a Community Chest affair, it is pointed out that it is timely in that it comes at about the time the local welfare and relief appeal will draw to a close.

The speaker for the evening will bring to Santa Ana the latest information upon welfare, relief and preventive activities in other cities. He has for years been known as a leader in social service work in Los Angeles and has attained an outstanding position in this field, it is said.

The gathering at the high school will involve no charge and will be entirely open to the public, the service clubs have announced. No advance reservations need to be made.

SECOND VOLUME ORANGE COUNTY HISTORY OFF PRESS TODAY; WINS ACCLAIM

The second annual edition of the Orange county history series, published at the junior college and high school press, sponsored by the Orange County Historical society, was off the press today.

Printed on the school press, the volume has furnished an outlet for the work of some of the most advanced students at the school. The panel on the introductory pages was drawn by Miss Goldie Peala. The layout and design was by Thomas E. Williams, director. The linotype composition was done by George Hawk and Willard Francis, with the press work done by Jack Reed and Charles White. The cover label and printing of introductory pages was done by Pete DeFazio.

Members of the Historical society publication committee in charge of the work are President C. D. Ball, M. D., T. E. Stephenson and William McPherson.

Illustrations in the volume are of the Don Bernardo Torba adobe ruins, the old Santa Ana hotel in the early '80's, Glenn L. Martin in one of his first planes and the Orange plaza in the late '80's.

Papers in the volume are "Crossing the Plains in 1849" by Joseph E. Pleasant, "Spanish and Mexican Land Grants of Orange County" by William McPherson, "The First Decade of the Orange County Historical Society" by Samuel M. Davis, "El Toro and Its History" by Charlotte Moulton, "History of Laguna Beach" by Josephine Yoch. Waite Lopez, "Fairview, Boom Town" by Blanche Collings, "The Walnut Industry of Orange County" by Harry W. Lewis, "The Yorba Family" by Adeline Pleasant, "Antonio Yorba's Will" as translated, "Aviation in Orange County" by C. D. Ball.

Names of "Places in Orange County" by Terry E. Stephenson, "The Story of Tustin" by C. E. Utt, "Tustin Schools" by J. J. Zieman, "The Bouchard Invasion" by Margaret Livingston, "The Ross Family in Santa Ana" by Orma R. Ross and "The Community of Orange" by Margaret Gardner.

The volume is an interesting and valuable addition to the records of Orange county, as well as being an outstanding book from a typographical standpoint, according to those who have seen it.

Travel Talk At School Tonight

Elliot J. Spear will deliver the travel talk at one of the series of travel lectures held under the sponsorship of adult education department which is to be held at 7 o'clock tonight in the Willard junior high school, it was announced today by Julia Ann Hyde of the travel department of the Commercial National bank.

The speaker is connected with the Nippon Yusen Kaisha steamship line at the Los Angeles office. He has been associated with the steamship business on the Pacific Coast for 16 years, and has spent three years in the HongKong office of the company.

COLLINS STAYS DRY IN RACE FOR CONGRESS

District Attorney Sam L. Collins, Republican candidate for congress from this district, appeared before a large audience in Riverside and re-iterated his stand on the eighteenth amendment Tuesday night. He referred specifically to the article which appeared in the Santa Ana Register under date of June 23, 1932, and read from that article as to where he stood with respect to the prohibition laws.

Collins said: "My attention has been called to the fact that some of my supporters felt I had not stressed sufficiently in public my attitude with reference to the eighteenth amendment and the national prohibition laws enacted thereunder. However, since this article had appeared on June 23, 1932, I assumed that there was no question among the voters of these three counties with respect to my attitude on this all important question. I consider it important and, therefore, have stressed the importance of it in my opening statement and since that time have directed my attention to other matters which I considered important to the voters with the respect to my attitude on those things. I desire you to know that I have not swerved one iota from the statement which appeared on that date in the Santa Ana Register.

He read the statement which appeared on that date as follows: "If I am elected to congress as a representative, I will uphold the Eighteenth amendment and will oppose any resolution attempting to repeal, modify or amend the same." "Collins said he intended to make a clean-cut campaign stressing importance of economic issues rather than factional issues. In keeping with his views on economy he will

ADMINISTRATION SCORED IN ADDRESS BY SENATOR GORE; LOCAL CANDIDATES SPEAK

Flinging witticism after witticism at many listeners who gathered in the Greek amphitheater at Anaheim to listen to him speak, Senator Thomas Gore, of Oklahoma, spoke yesterday afternoon at a county wide Democratic rally.

Chuckling and laughing his way through his address and thrusting sally after sally at his opponents, the blind senator held his audience in rapt attention as he pleaded for the election of Roosevelt by "all Democrats and Republicans who are not satisfied with present conditions."

Using the characteristic upward jerk of his hand to emphasize his statements, Senator Gore said, "Our people are neither happy nor prosperous, yet we have men, minds, money and resources. Something essential has left us."

Candidates Sincere
"The election should be based on a comparison of the records of the men and the parties. I believe both Roosevelt and President Hoover are sincere."

"Hoover is the greatest engineer the world has ever known when it comes to making people poorer. He has created more poor people in three years than God Almighty has in 3000 years. None but an engineer could drain and dam the nation."

"As a fisherman Hoover is a great man! He caught more suckers in one day than anyone else. Yes, we must not change engineers during a wreck," the senator continued during the continual outbursts of laughter that greeted his remarks.

"The Republican party has lost its basis."

At the Riverside meeting the principal speakers were Mrs. Robert Burdett, Mrs. W. E. Evans, of Glendale, the wife of United States Congressman W. E. Evans, of Glendale, and Miss Lois Wilson, of the motion picture star.

the principle that Abraham Lincoln put into it. Then the party released the chains from thousands of black folk, now it has riveted chains to 120,000,000 people.

"The Smoot-Hawley bill has been a means whereby those who contributed to the campaign funds of President Hoover can get back their money at the expense of the people. It takes a favored few to fleece the millions."

Wise cracks at Hoover
Aiming at Hoover's many years spent in foreign countries the speaker said, "I do not ordinarily favor prohibitive tariffs, but I do favor a tariff against bringing in presidential timber from another country."

Declaring that no class of people has prospered under his leadership Senator Gore asserted that the president had carried prosperity out on a stretcher. The farmer's downfall began in 1917, he said, when Hoover, as food administrator, made them sell products at fixed prices and at the same time buy in an unrestricted market. "We need the renewal of foreign trade to re-establish us, less taxes and no trusts," he said.

The speaker was introduced by Louis Hoskins who also introduced Robert Ramsey, candidate for the assembly on the Democratic ticket, Frank Harwood, candidate for assembly from the seventy-fourth district, David Wettlin of Orange, candidate for the state senate and B. Z. McKinney, candidate for congress from this district.

In brief speeches each candidate urged that the people remember the importance of the state ticket as well as the national ticket.

Where Does She Get Her "Pep?"

SHE doesn't look seventy. Nor feel that old. The woman who stimulates her organs can have energy that women half her age will envy!

At middle-age your vital organs begin to slow down. You may not be sick, simply sluggish. But why endure a condition of half-health when there's a stimulant that will stir a stagnant system to new life and energy in a week's time?

This remarkable stimulant is perfectly harmless. It is, in fact, a family doctor's prescription. So, if you're tired of trying every patent medicine that comes along, tell the druggist you want a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Take a bit of this delicious syrup every day or so, until you know by the way you feel that your lazy liver is again active, and your bowels are poison-free.

Men, women, and children who are run-down, who tire easily, get bilious spells or have frequent headaches, are soon straightened out when they get this prescriptive preparation of pure pepsin, active senna, and fresh laxative herbs. (Syrup pepsin is all the help the bowels need, and you do not form the very bad habit of always taking cathartics.)

Keep a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin in the house, and take a stimulating spoonful every now and then. It is all that a great many people ever take to keep strong and vigorous, and absolutely free from constipation.

LAGUNA BEACH MAN ENDS LIFE WITH BULLET

Despondent because of ill health, Martin R. Rohn, 42, of 1963 Catalina street, Laguna Beach, ended his life Wednesday afternoon by shooting himself in the head while reclining in a cleft of rock on the beach near the north of Bluebird canyon.

The fact that a cigaret still was held between the lips and that the hands were folded neatly across the body led to an investigation by Coroner Earl R. Abbey and his deputy, Bert Costello. After interviewing members of the family and reading a note addressed to the authorities and his wife, Coroner Abbey decided not to hold an inquest.

Rohn came to Laguna Beach recently because of ill health from Fontana, where his parents live, and the family rented a studio cottage in Arch Beach. He originally came from Montreal. According to the police, members of his family had watched him closely for several days.

The body was discovered by Miss Jessie Dewitz, a nurse, who was walking on the beach. Chief of Police Abe W. Johnson was notified and called Coroner Abbey. The body was ordered removed to the Laguna Beach funeral home.

In addition to his parents and widow, Rohn is survived by two children, William, 12, and Mary, 10. Mrs. Rohn collapsed when informed of her husband's death.

MRS. ANNIE D. KING CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Annie D. King, 62, of 636 North Grand avenue, Orange, passed away at her home last night. The remains will be sent to Partidge, Kansas, for burial. Friends may view the body at the C. W. Coffey funeral home Friday afternoon.

Survivors include her husband, George King; a niece, Mrs. Parnell Barnett, and a brother, John Cassidy, all of Orange, and three brothers and two sisters in Kansas.

FROM HOUSE TO WHITE HOUSE

The Democratic Administration
Would Stand for a High Farm Tariff

MR. ROOSEVELT
SAYS:—

"Of course it is absurd to talk of lowering tariff duties on farm products.

"All prosperity springs from the soil. I know of no excessively high tariff duties on farm products. I do not intend that such duties shall be lowered. To do so would be inconsistent with my entire farm program."

Franklin D. Roosevelt has blasted false rumors of his opponents by clearly stating his program for Retaining Present Tariff Rates on Farm Products.

B. Z. McKinney, Democratic candidate for Congress, has many times declared his stand for the present tariff, and higher rates, if needed, for protection of agriculture—Also a tariff of 85 cents to $1 per barrel on oil.

The Democratic party is sure to be in control of the next Congress, which decides the tariff, and McKinney would be backed by the full power of the party in getting his tariff demands through Congress.

Roosevelt has stated the tariff policy of the Democratic party.

McKinney has applied it to the products of this district.

Do not make the mistake of sending a Republican Congressman to a Democratic Congress.

Armistice was signed.

The speaker blasted the argument of wets that repeal would solve the financial ailments of the country and would relieve the farmer in his production of grain, by quoting figures to prove otherwise. "If we are consuming more liquor now than we did previous to 1918," he said, "it is only logical that we will use more than that portion of grain should liquor be brought back."

The speaker presented an array of facts to prove that conditions are better under prohibition than under legal liquor-selling. He declared that he doubted the statement made by wets that the nation is consuming three times as much liquor now as before prohibition.

Endorses Shuler

Wealthy men are trying to bring liquor back to load the burden of taxation on the shoulders of beer drinkers of America and take it off themselves, he said. He hit Hearst and his papers for advocating liquor return.

The speaker related an experience to prove that there are few high school students that use liquor, contrary to the claim of wets.

After reading the entire Wright act, the speaker said "If you wish to turn California over to the bootlegger, hoodlums and racketeers, you can easily do so by voting 'yes' on the Wright act repeal proposition next week. If the act is repealed, only two federal judges and 93 enforcement officers will have the right to make arrests and try liquor violation cases." He urged a "no" vote to retain the act.

Mayor Darby characterized Proposition No. 2 as "just as dangerous" as No. 1. He pointed out that in no way could any community have local option if the measure is passed, and in case the eighteenth amendment is repealed.

The speaker paid high tribute to Bob Shuler, candidate for United States senator from California, for fighting liquor interests. He stressed the importance of electing a dry senator.

PROGRAM BY STUDENTS WINS CLUB APPROVAL

What members and guests of the Santa Ana Breakfast club declared was one of the best entertainment programs ever presented at a club meeting was given by students of the musical departments of the Junior college and high school at the meeting held in Ketter's cafe this morning.

Through the courtesy of Miss Myrtle Martin, director of music at the schools, a group of male vocal quartet, trio and solo numbers was presented before the group which called the singers back time after time for encore numbers.

The quartet which sang was composed of Mark Hare, Martin Bowman, Bill Fox and Rutherford Williams. The junior college trio, composed of Hare, Bowman and Fox, sang two numbers. Each of the trio sang a solo. They were assisted at the piano by Duncan Harwood.

Bruce Switzer was in charge of the program for the day. After President Dave Wettlin left the meeting because of business appointments, Rodney Bacon presided over the meeting.

Previous to the entertainment program, Wayne Goble delivered a short speech explaining why proposition 11 which is to be voted on at the election November 8 in California, and which concerns giving the city of Huntington Beach the right to drill offset oil wells on the beach, should be given favorable support. He showed pictures depicting the condition of the beach where a major oil company has drilled wells, explaining that the beach is now unfit for recreational purposes. He answered many questions regarding the measure.

4-H Leaders Plan Conference Here

The regular 4-H club leaders' council, will be held at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow, in the school administration building, 1912 North Main street, Santa Ana. In addition to the annual election of officers, plans will be made for 4-H day at the Great Western Livestock show November 26 and for the Armistice day celebration in Fullerton. The committee in charge has offered a 4-H banner to be won by the club supplying the best marching unit, according to Eric E. Eastman, assistant farm advisor. The banner will be awarded at the annual Presentation day exercises on December 4. All 4-H clubs are eligible to compete for the banner.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

-- News Behind the News --

WASHINGTON By Paul Mallon

CURRENCY

Inflation seems to be lurking around the next corner.

Powers behind the throne are already discussing this prospect in private. They are not so frightened about it as they were four months ago. They see where it might logically follow as the next weapon in the Hooverian battle on a thousand fronts.

The booming voice of Borah from the West first called the matter to their attention. He has been firing the wheat fields with inflation propaganda.

Those who know his plans say he will transfer his fight to the National arena right after election.

The big fellows here are getting ready to fight against it. They whisper, however, that they may not resist as strongly as they did at the last Congressional session. They are by no means convinced they could stop it even if they wanted to. They have receded step by step from former financial theories. Retreat is getting easier for them every minute.

Undoubtedly Borah will be guided by the conservative desires of Senator Glass of Virginia in anything he undertakes. That was what happened in the last session when they put through the puny four billion dollar national bank note inflationary step.

From that to the larger measure of real controlled inflation is only a small and logical jump.

No one is even thinking about mass production of greenbacks or anything like that. They see it coming through flotation of large bond issues, probably for public works. The new bonds could be made the basis for currency by national banks. Fresh money would stimulate an enthusiasm in industry. Prices would rise. Wheat and corn might bring enough to pay the interest on the mortgage. At least that is the line of reasoning of proponents of the plan.

The scheme would of course carry a time limit of probably three years. It could be extended later on.

Presidential politics has nothing to do with this proposed adventure in finance. The issue will be raised and must be met no matter who is elected next Tuesday.

RESERVE

Another hidden factor is the attitude of Federal Reserve officials. They are slowly coming around to the view that their inflation program is not enough. It has worked well. They are satisfied to a certain extent. But some have already reached the realization that not much further can be accomplished along that line.

It is within their power to ease the money situation a little more. They may do it after election without waiting for a congressional step that might push them further than they want to go.

WHEAT

A deal is scented in Agriculture Secretary Hyde's abandonment of short trading restrictions in the wheat market. A quiet announcement was made at Chicago (not Washington) that hereafter short transactions would not have to be recorded each day at the Agriculture Department. If it was means to help the wheat market it had directly the opposite effect. Prices slid off thereafter to new all-time lows, doubtless due to world conditions.

OUTLOOK

Some experts who can figure everything believe the stock market will go up after election no matter who wins. They are confident business will cheer only because the suspense is ended. They do not expect the rally to continue long.

NOTES

There are many conservatives here who will tell you that while inflation was a bad thing for us last spring it might not be so bad now. . . . Some see no other way for nearly insolvent debtors to pay off. . . . Never before has there been such unanimity among political prophets. . . . Practically all Washington correspondents who have traveled around the country weighing sentiment have returned with the prediction that "the hog's eye is set." . . . The explanation has now reached the highest financial sources here that Montague Norman did not know reporters were present when he delivered his pessimistic analysis of the world economic situation. . . . The highest sources are ready to retract their hot criticism of Norman with that explanation.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

REPUBLICANS

The barometer of optimism continues to rise at local Republican headquarters. One of the leading officials in the eastern campaign is telling his friends privately "We may not be able to beat the Democrats, but at least they'll know they've been in a hot scrap."

Changes in the Hearst poll are a source of vast encouragement. Headquarters is doing a lot of counting up of states which show a current gain for Hoover—however slight—on the premise that the latest tabulation represents current sentiment and that the earlier results are no longer important.

One symptom of change is that local candidates are beginning to discover that there is a national ticket after all. Ohio, Indiana, Minnesota, the Dakotas and California are showing much better cooperation between state and national organizations. New York headquarters now dopes a good chance in all these states.

SUGAR

Another hopeful slant from the Republican angle is the best sugar break which is being capitalized in Colorado and neighboring states. Apparently Roosevelt sent a form letter of appreciation in reply to solicitations of Cuban well-wishers and the way the reply is phrased makes it appear that he is in favor of a sugar tariff reduction. This motif is apparently being worked successfully.

REFUND

Herewith a little four act comedy which might be called "The Power of the Press."

Act I—A New York bank sends letters to its branches suggesting that Hoover's re-election would be good for the country and intimating that anonymous campaign contributions from officers and employees would be welcomed.

Act II—A branch of the bank—located on 42nd street—responds by turning in several anonymous contributions.

Act III—A local newspaper columnist gets hold of the item and runs it in his column without mentioning the name of the bank.

Act IV—The main office calls up the branch and asks for the names of the donors. Because we want to return their money. We do not want it said that we are intimidating our employees."

DEBT

An official of a large bank says: "The people don't seem to realize that credit and debt are the same thing. They talk about the Government lending millions more to the farmers and everybody says that's fine. If they said they were going to put the farmers millions of dollars deeper in debt everyone would say how terrible. And yet it's all the same."

Fixed debt is the reason why copper companies are so much worse off than oil. It also explains why motor companies—even with their heavy slump in sales—are stading the gaff much better than steel companies.

HE IS RIGHT ON THE TARIFF HE IS RIGHT ON THE DRY QUESTION

SAM L. COLLINS

We Need Him in Washington

Two Vital Issues Involved in Congressional Campaign SAM L. COLLINS STANDS SQUARE-TOED ON BOTH QUESTIONS

For Congress Orange County Should Vote for a Man Who Understands Its Problems.

It should send a man to Congress who can stay there a long time. None but a Republican can do that. No Democrat can do effective work on the tariff for a district whose whole prosperity is wrapped up in the tariff as Orange County's is.

We Must Keep the Eighteenth Amendment!

In a frantic effort to get votes, the opposition to Sam L. Collins has misrepresented Collins' stand on the dry question.

"I'll oppose any effort to do away with the Eighteenth Amendment", said Collins in opening his campaign, and that's exactly where he stands.

Collins' record as District Attorney of Orange County shows him to be a law-enforcer. VOTE FOR A MAN WHO PERFORMS AS HE PROMISES.

We Must Keep the Tariff!

The entire structure of our prosperity is built on protective duties on oranges, lemons, walnuts, beans and other products.

SAM COLLINS BELIEVES IN THE PROTECTIVE TARIFF as a matter of party principle and governmental policy.

He is aligned with the Republican party, which believes that way. No camouflage, no explanations from him are necessary. He is square-toed on the question.

PARIS LOVE

By Nina Wilcox Putnam

INSTALMENT 1

The footboard of Alacia's bed had a gold Cupid on it. One of the creature's wings was broken and the gilt plaster had chipped off above his left eye, giving him a most disreputable expression, while the string to the bow in his chubby hands had been missing for a hundred and fifty years. But it was an imposing bed for all of that, and had been listed in the inventory of the big marble house on the edge of the Bois de Boulogne as "un lit tres historique, ancient propriete de Doge Venetien XIV siecles."

The battered gilt Cupid was naturally the first object upon which Alacia's eyes rested on awakening, and each morning he leered at her as though mocking her solitude. Whereupon Alacia, who insisted upon sleeping with her shutters wide open, was wont to throw a small lace pillow at him; a nicely aimed pillow which usually stuck on his outstretched bow and kept the sunlight from glancing off his rotund figure into her eyes.

On a certain exceptionally fine morning in early spring, Alacia performed this rite with her accustomed vigor and then, yawning enjoyably, examined the little jewelled clock at her bedside. Twenty minutes to seven. Good! she thought undismayed by the earliness of the hour, there would be very little traffic on the Versailles road and she could make excellent time! A pair of white feet with red enameled toes swung over the edge of the Doge's imperial bed and carried her across to the open window. The trees of the old garden below were in young leaf and alive with sparrows, noisy, exultant sparrows whose presence greatly enhanced the curiously rural atmosphere common to Parisian gardens. The trees were luxuriant, with moist black trunks, and even the tulips which outlined the beds in bright futuristic colors had a richness, an almost rank quality which was beautiful without being, somehow, quite wholesome. In this most pretentious and expensive of neighborhoods, the nearest houses showed only discreet chimney-pots, mounting in a stately fashion among yet more trees; private trees in private gardens, where sometimes very dull and very private garden parties would be held during the season if the rain held off. Even from this back-window view of them one sensed the rather uncomfortable elegance of French living, even among the rich, and as she gazed over the neighborhood Alacia felt as always a slight sense of being marooned in this house which was still so much less her mother's than that of the Marquise de la Tournadelle, from whom it had been bought complete. Mrs. Sayers had raved about the place when purchasing it.

"It's just perfect!" she had declared. "Don't you change a thing, please Marquise, I'd never be able to give it this French touch, myself!"

And against her will Alacia had blushed for her mother's expression. Sometimes the girl felt that all she had got out of her eastern schooling was the capacity for gauging her mother's lack of culture and an ashamed sense of superficial superiority, which while it made her feel petty, she found herself unable to banish. For in important matters, Mrs. Sayers had proved herself of no mean capacity. It had been her fearless and surprising business judgment which had insisted upon holding on to the French automobile manufacturing company her husband had financed, and this insistence, which her directors had bitterly opposed, was responsible for the enormous wealth that had eventually found suitable expression in the largest house in the Bois de Boulogne, the most splendid fleet of private automobiles in France, and the unlimited credit which suddenly made rue de la Paix dressmakers a matter of course, and the most expensive jewels, trinkets instead of responsibilities. The Europa, called the world's finest automobile, which old man Sayers had backed with sound American dollars when his friends had laughed at him for throwing away his money on a wild-cat scheme, now had great plants in America as well as in France, while the word elegance and Europa had become synonymous. And the stubborn, fat, ugly little middle-aged woman, Alacia's mother, was reaping the incredibly golden harvest. Yes, the daughter thought apologetically, it really was of small importance that Mrs. Sayers had retained the untutored jargon of the small mid-western town from which they had come, and where the Sayers had entered the automobile world through the humble doors of a tumbledown service garage belonging to Mrs. Sayers' father.

Alacia, beautiful, young, with a poise of unlimited wealth had enough of her father's clear brain and sense of justice, to appreciate her situation in its exactitude. She understood why her mother had not attempted to buck social barriers in America, but had instead slipped swiftly and easily into those Paris circles which while neither exclusive nor stable, were frequently touched by Americans of distinction, who excused themselves for their Paris acquaintances on the grounds that any Parisian friendship was necessarily only temporary. Thus the Sayers had some distinguished friends; friends too, of unknown backgrounds; sometimes of too well-known backgrounds, and any number of floridly titled acquaintances. It was a society wherein a properly cut suit of clothes constituted a gentleman and the right hats a lady. Nobody asked too many questions, their social register was the daily column headed "Americans in Europe" in the pages of the Paris Herald, and behind this shifting group of gay inconsequentials, loomed the permanent grey mystery of the "real French Aristocracy," a fixed society of unknown quantity into which individuals of the Anglo-Saxon crowd claimed to plunge occasionally. On the whole it was a pleasant and amusing enough little world, without embarrassment for the newly rich.

All this lay subconsciously in the back of Alacia Sayer's mind as she bathed and dressed in the historic magnificence of her suite, pausing at last for her petit dejeuner of American coffee, jam and brioche. The restless discontent which would not let her sleep late, combined with a natural vigor and a wholesome longing for the country, was driving her towards the open. Her bright hair was quickly tucked into a small beret, a loose tweed coat with ample pockets was slipped on over a surprisingly shabby old dress, and Alacia was ready. At the door of her sitting room she encountered Ernestine, her mother's maid, standing in front of a closed door across the hall, an untouched tea-tray in her hands.

"If my mother asks for me when she wakes up," said Alacia, "tell her I've taken the new car for a tryout on the Versailles road, and will be back early." The elderly Frenchwoman seemed embarrassed. "Mais, pardon Mademoiselle," she replied. "It would appear that Madame has not yet come home." Alacia checked with difficulty the involuntary exclamation which rose to her lips, as she remembered. Of course! The Smedleys had arrived in France the day before, and naturally that would mean an all night party. Eva Smedley would expect it. Alacia could easily picture the meeting with her mother, and Ben Smedley's big, hearty voice exclaiming loudly, "Paris! Well, well, here we all are in Paris. Parée! Whee! Whoopie! The Folies, let's go to the Folies!" Or Eva Smedley, "And the Rene Padogue, let's go original my dear, those cheeses, I adore those cheeses. Stop in at Harry's on the way." Then her mother: "Oh, no, nobody goes to Harry Bar's except tourists, my dear!" and Smedley again. "A man in New York gave me an address where they have the best cooking in Paris . . . it's on the rue something. Florence's or Zelli's? Well, we've time for both, come on folks, the night's young, yet . . . !"

Well, if her mother wanted to show them the town, that was her headache! Alacia shrugged her shoulders, brushed the picture from her mind, and ran lightly down the stairs.

The garage back of the garden was filled with expensive motors in a long line. Ordinarily there were six of them in the row, cars of every shape and form imaginable, alike only in their superlative elegance and costliness. Now one was missing, to-wit the great black and silver limousine in which Jean, the head chauffeur, was doubtless at this moment sleeping outside some nightclub or early awakening bistro. But the expert mechanic who kept the gleaming fleet in order was already on the floor when Alacia entered and went

Porte Dauphine, and a few minutes later the thin facade of the Longchamps race-course loomed suddenly on her left. Then the river gleamed ahead and in another moment she was crossing a bridge, the gaily decorated inns of the village on the bank opposite as colorful as a country fair. Up the long twisting road the St. Germain hill melted under the Europa without a change of gear, until, gaining in speed at every yard, they mounted to a point where Paris and the silver ribbon of the Seine lay far below, decked in a gauze veil of new green leaves, the spring sunshine picking out flashing jewels from window and spire. Then abruptly the road straightened and narrowed into a cathedral archway leading toward Versailles, and with a little shout of delight Alacia stepped on the accelerator.

"Now show me what you can do!" she cried to the car. "Everything you've got, old lady! Come on; let's have it!"

The high embankments narrowed into a blur of rich brown earth, the arching plane-trees focussed to a tunnel-point of obscurity no held that she caught a faint aroma of fine soap, and the clinging odor of good tobacco. It was astonishingly pleasant and comforting, being there, and she felt shamelessly disinclined to arise. So she merely smiled back at him without making any serious effort to speak. One of his hands slipped up into the bright folds of her hair, but otherwise he did not move, and they stayed as they were for a long moment, held by each other's smile until memory crept back to her. Then Alacia pushed him slowly from her and sat up, very weak and dizzy from the shock.

"Mademoiselle est blessee?" he demanded anxiously. "Ah, mais c'est affreux!" Then seeing by her eyes that she did not quite understand he spoke in perfect English; the excellent, soft English of an Oxford trained Frenchman. "Are you really unhurt?" he begged of her. "Can you feel any pain? No?"

"I don't think I'm hurt!" she replied still bewildered. "I missed you all right, didn't I?"

"It was the most sporting thing I ever saw!" he exclaimed fervently. "And it was all my fault for coming out of the driveway like that without blowing my horn. If you are injured I shall never forgive myself!"

"I think I'm intact!" Alacia said, feeling herself gingerly. Then with his aid she scrambled to her feet and caught sight of her car. Only one wheel had hit the tree, but the radiator was smashed into a bank of soft earth above which she had presumably landed in a plowed field. She tottered a little at the realization and his arm went around her instantly. She did not protest, but permitted him to lead her to his battered old car and assist her up into the front seat.

"If you will show your forgiveness by coming back to the house," he said, "My mother will help you. Mademoiselle what can I say or do to show my gratitude and admiration?"

"I think," said Alacia, who was rapidly recovering by now. "I think I'd like to telephone. The car, you know! Is there a telephone in your house?"

"No, there is not," he admitted reluctantly. "My mother is prejudiced against what she regards as modern innovations. I'm terribly sorry."

"But there must be a 'phone somewhere near!" cried Alacia impatiently. "I really have to get the house and have Scott come out with a wrecker. That car is too precious to be left alone longer than absolutely necessary, and besides, my mother may worry if I'm late getting back; even though," she added cryptically, "she's late getting back herself." The young man nodded sympathetically.

"There is a telephone a little way down the road at the Auberge du Coq Hardie," he informed her. Alacia brightened.

"Then if you don't mind just driving me there," she began, "we won't have to disturb your household, for I'm all right now, really I am. Only worried about the car of course . . ." But the rest of her sentence was drowned in the roar of the noisy little engine, as the old flivver started up with a jerk which almost precipitated Alacia into a second headlong flight. As they bounced along the highway the young man turned to her with a grin.

"Forty-sparrow-power model!" he called over the noise. "The cylinders are a little jazz, but we get there all right!"

Alacia grinned back. And then for the first time she noticed the clothes he was wearing, and realized with astonishment that the powerful but slender young figure was encased in a neat morning coat and correct striped trousers. A cane and smart grey gloves lay in the bottom of the car, and there was a white flower in his button-hole. Was he dressed for a wedding? It looked that way. Then whose? Not his own, she hoped with a ridiculously unreasonable pang of alarm. The incongruity between his battered old car and his immaculate costume reminded her of certain outdoor-sequences for motion picture comedies, but there was certainly nothing ridiculous about this man. In fact he was the best type of Northern Frenchman, displaying none of these effeminate characteristics which she had once thought of as applicable to all his countrymen; an impression which two years of living in a limited Parisian environment had not greatly modified. And he certainly was extraordinarily good looking. As she covertly watched his romantic profile, she smiled out of sheer pleasure in his completely masculine beauty.

Th Auberge du Coq Hardie had a telephone which by evil fortune would not function until the opening of the Poste where central was situated, so the rotunde proprietor informed them. Furthermore, even the Poste itself functioned not before eight and one-half hours, but in the meantime if M'seur et Madame would wait, and perhaps partake of cafe au lait and fresh croissants, well, the garden was warm with sun and a little table in the arbor could be very easily arranged.

Alacia and the young man exchanged glances. It was a foregone conclusion that they would await the opening of the Poste. Even the assumption of the title of Madame sat easily upon her young shoulders as the girl followed her escort out across the untidy grass of a sheltered little garden. The promised arbor was thrifflily trellised with a stark vine that would later in the year hang heavy with grapes, and the enormous patron swabbed a grimy little table and flecked a napkin at two metal chairs with which the arbor was further adorned. Alacia sank gratefully into one of these seats and chin in hands, looked with satisfaction across the spring trimmed rural landscape, and then at her extremely urban companion.

"I don't think I'm hurt," she replied, still bewildered. "I missed you all right, didn't I?"

"It was the most sporting thing I ever saw!" he exclaimed fervently. "And it was all my fault."

at once to the new car, a low racing Europa, silver grey as a Zeppelin, and almost as powerful.

"Morning Scott!" said Alacia. "How do you like her?"

"She's a sweet thing, Miss!" the little red-headed cockney replied enthusiastically. "I bin a-tuning of 'er, not that she really need it. But she's 'ardly wot yer might call a lady's car, Miss!"

"I should hope not!" Alacia purred happily. "I told them at the factory to make me up an exact duplicate of the car we are officially entering in the Prix de Monaco. In other words, Scott, the fastest, most powerful model the Europa has produced to date. Roll her out please, I'm going to give her a run while the roads are clear!"

Silently the silver monster submitted to being pushed out into the courtyard where Scott filled the tank while Alacia walked around her new toy, flicking away invisible bits of dust with a scrap of waste, and patting the long body in loving admiration. And as always in connection with the Europa, Alacia thought of her father. If only he could see this strange, beautiful product which had grown out of his enterprise, how proud he would be, how interested! Not as his widow was interested, for the dollars and cents which the car represented but in the car itself as an entity almost human in its response and initiative in its performance. Alacia was conscious of an inner conviction that motors were living things, capable of sympathy, repulsion, stubbornness and loyalty. She would have been ashamed, perhaps, to voice such a notion, but in her secret heart she believed it, and her feeling toward the car she drove was very similar to that experienced by a rider toward a favorite horse. Moreover, it was a fact that she regarded her Europas as a sort of living link between herself and the dead father whom she had adored.

At last Scott stood aside with an expressive gesture which said the car was ready. Alacia slid into the low seat behind the wheel, and dismissing the mechanic with a nod, drove out into the cobbled by-street, narrowly missing a milk-woman with a charrette. At the corner she swung up into the Avenue du Bois, sliding precariously through a world washed by earlier rains which had left the treacherous Paris pavements as slippery as ice. The Bois at this hour was deserted save for an occasional shivering gendarme pacing along in a blue cape, and the commis who with reluctant vigor swept the gravelled terraces of the woodland restaurants. Alacia felt she was holding the great car in rein with difficulty, as though her own impatience to test out its power was communicated from the softly purring engine which only waited her command to prove its strength. A sharp turn carried her through the least troublesome gate of Paris, the larger than a small round coin, which advanced at a set distance ahead. They grey ribbon of the road seemed clear and level, for when it mounted, the slope became curiously flattened as soon as the great car was upon it. Once a high two-wheeled peasant cart returning from the halles loomed down the green tunnel, vast and bulk out of all proportion. The siren roared under Alacia's expert little hand, and almost instantly the road ahead of her was clear of obstacles once more; while behind her the outraged peasant woman stood flattened against the wheel of her cart. Exultant as a young Valkyrie, Alacia saw the speedometer rising. One hundred and thirty, one hundred and forty, one hundred and fifty kilometers an hour. Then a distant curve in the road forced her to slack her speed, just a little too late.

For beyond the curve stood the gates of an old chateau: a tall pair of delicate iron lacework gates, opening upon an overgrown drive, and leading to one of those sadly beautiful French houses which sit so closely upon the damp green of their lawns as to seem growing out of them; a grey, turreted mansion, whose shuttered windows and neglected fountains seemed sorrowing for the past glories of aristocratic owners. At the moment of Alacia's approach an old Ford car, shabby and decrepit, was in the act of emerging from this vastness, wheezing its way hurriedly to the cross road. Its front wheels were already on the paved highway when Alacia saw it, and for a dreadful instant it seemed as if disaster were inevitable. Only a highly skilled driver with a cool head could have avoided a fatal accident, but Alacia, bending all her weight on a left turn of the wheel passed the Ford by a hair's breadth, only to realize at the same instant that a great tree was looming above her, leaning over her, destroying her. Something tore her loose from the wheel, she felt herself hurtling through space, and then came oblivion.

Out of a purple and black infinity filled with stars that hurt, Alacia emerged at last, because a voice was calling her persistently. It was not a familiar voice yet she liked the sound of it; liked, too, the note of entreaty in it, as though her obedience mattered greatly to the speaker. So with an effort she opened her eyes. There, a foot away, was an extraordinarily handsome face, the face of a young man, whose fine brown eyes devoured her with anxiety. As her own met them, he smiled from relief, showing a fine row of even, white teeth, and crinkling a tiny, well trimmed moustache. With slow wonder running warmly through her, Alacia realized that she was lying in the arms of this exceedingly attractive stranger. Indeed she was so closely

NOTED LECTURER AT CHURCH SUNDAY

OCEANVIEW, Nov. 3.—Walter Thomas Mills, nationally known lecturer, is scheduled to speak in the Wintersburg Methodist church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. It is announced by the pastor, the Rev. W. A. Maseon.

Mr. Mills spoke on "The Present Economic Situation in Relation to the Election" at the Oceanview school auditorium this week. He was introduced by J. F. Burke, of Santa Ana.

The speaker was one of the founders of the Anti-Saloon league and of the original Anti-Saloon League club of Ohio. The Mills club was named in honor of Mr. Mills.

Mr. Mills spoke under the auspices of the Huntington Beach district Socialist union. An open forum followed the address.

COLLINS' AIDE TO SPEAK OVER RADIO TONIGHT

The second of two broadcasts over station KREG in behalf of the candidacy of Sam L. Collins for election as congressman in the nineteenth district, will be heard tonight beginning at 8:30 o'clock and continuing for half an hour.

The featured entertainers will be the Orange County Kill Willies, a combination of happy-go-lucky musicians and funsters who droll humor, puns and wise cracks have made them one of the most popular of the radio outfits in this section.

Speaking directly in behalf of Collins will be S. B. Kaufman, chief deputy district attorney, who knows first hand of the record for law enforcement that his chief has made in Orange county. Kaufman's remarks will be especially pertinent to the present campaign inasmuch as Collins stands squarely on the maintenance of the eighteenth amendment and has said many times that he will vote against its repeal.

Kaufman is also expected to emphasize Collins' stand for the continuance of the Republican protective tariff, which his backers say is so vital to the continued successful marketing of the annual $100,000,000 agricultural crop produced in Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties, making up the nineteenth district.

Kaufman will tell his radio audience that Collins is the only ex-service man in the congressional race and is against any change in existing veterans' legislation. Kaufman will probably reiterate what Collins has said so often, that Collins stands for a stiff tariff on imported oil, drastic economies in government, early completion of Boulder dam and a job for every man at fair wages.

Supplementing Kaufman's remarks will be a brief talk by George Hubbard, past adjutant and member of the board of trustees of the United Spanish War Veterans. Hubbard, well known among the veterans of the war of 1898, is active among his comrades in behalf of Collins.

COMMUNITY CHEST PROGRAM TONIGHT

Two speakers will tell the story of Community Chest activities tonight over radio KREG in a 30-minute program starting at 7 o'clock. One of the speakers will be Harry McPherson, chairman of the Public Utilities Department of the Chest campaign, and the other will be the Rev. Harry E. Owings, captain of the establishments group in the campaign.

The musical portion of the program will be contributed by George M. Watson, tenor, who will sing a group of songs accompanied at the piano by his wife who is also a vocalist of note. Watson will sing several solo numbers and will present a group of duets with his wife.

RADIO FEATURES

Time References Are Pacific Standard Time

Howard Thurston, world famous magician, will make his debut as a radio entertainer over an NBC network, including KFI, between 9:15 and 9:30 o'clock tonight. The program will be heard each Thursday and Friday thereafter at the same time. Many of his adventures in all parts of the world will be dramatized by Thurston and his company of dramatic actors. The great magician's knowledge of magic has reared him from any precarious places. In his opening program Thurston will dramatize an adventure in which he saves a young lady in his company from the wrath of an Indian prince who threatens her life. Featured in this broadcast will be one of the magician's most famous illusions, "The Death Ray Machine," in which it appears that the girl is dissolved in thin air.

Germany's internal strife and economic conditions will be described by Otto C. Klep, consul general for Germany in New York, over a National Broadcasting company network, including KFI SD, at 8:15 o'clock tonight. Dr. Klep's talk, on "Germany and the Crisis," is one of a series of consular chiefs in New York, who speak each Thursday under the auspices of the Seamen's House of the Y. M. C. A. General Soder, conductor, will lead an NBC concert orchestra in a program of German music during the broadcast.

Broadcasting from the new War Memorial Opera House in San Francisco, the Standard Symphony Orchestra under the leadership of Alfred Hertz will be heard over an NBC network, including KFI, during the Standard Symphony Hour beginning at 8:15 o'clock tonight. Masterpieces of universal appeal have been chosen for Hertz's program, which begins with the popular overture to Mozart's charming opera, "The Marriage of Figaro." The Mozart number will be followed by the delightful Scherzo from Mendelssohn's incidental music to "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Last's most famous Hungarian Rhapsody, the second, will be heard during the concert, together with works by Beethoven, Borodin and Massenet.

A personally conducted tour of one of Hollywood's biggest studios, the Radio Picture lot in Hollywood, will be made during the program, Hollywood on the Air, over the NBC network, including KFI, from 9:30 to 10 o'clock tonight. One of the high points of the excursion will take listeners right on to one of the sets on the lot after which there will be a location trip to where a major part of Ann Harding and Richard Dix's latest picture, "The Conquerors," was made.

How legends have been the source of musical inspiration will be illustrated by Walter Damrosch when the concert for students is presented during the NBC Music Appreciation Hour over a transcontinental NBC network, including KPCA and KFSB, at 8 a. m. tomorrow. The first number on the program is "Processional of Knights of the Grail," from Wagner's "Parsifal." "The Sorcerer's Apprentice," by Dukas; "Symphony in D," by Franz Joseph Haydn, are other numbers to be heard.

KREG NOTES

May Weyer and Bob Cyrs will be heard again tonight between 6 and 6:15 in their presentation of vocal and instrumental numbers, using the piano and accordion. Comments on this program from listeners will be appreciated, according to studio officials.

Songs of yesterday will be featured tonight by Jerry Hall, Santa Ana's Singing Tire Merchant, when he goes on the air. He will present a group of melodies that are more than 50 years old. In addition to the vocal numbers on the program Hall will continue his interesting story of the "Romance of Rubber." During the vocal numbers Hall will accompany himself on the piano, proving that he is a versatile musician.

Correction

By personal contact with the Spanish War Veterans of Orange County, I am in a position to state in all truth, that we, the Veterans of the Spanish War, are not misled or controlled by a small group of men who have caused to be inserted in an Ad in The Register the information that the United Spanish War vets, as a unit, support Mr. B. Z. McKinney or any other candidate. Furthermore, we deplore the fact that our organization should be used as political propaganda.

Electricity is Cheap!

Although

California Homes Use More Electricity every Year

The Electrical Bill Remains the Smallest Item in the Family Budget

DURING 1932 Edison homes consumed 71 per cent more electricity than they did only eight years ago. 727 kilowatt hours were used in the average home in 1932, as against 424 kilowatt hours average in 1924. Yet the average Edison electric bill today is very little, if any, higher than it was in 1924. This is because Edison has made eight voluntary rate reductions in the last ten years, during a period when other costs were rising.

Using electricity as liberally as they do, Edison homes spend less than 1.2 per cent of the average family income for service. (The average cost of twelve months' electric service to homes in Edison territory last year was only $29.50 while the average family income is approximately $2500.)

Think of buying all the services, comfort and conveniences electricity brings into your home for only 1.2 per cent of the Family Budget!

SLIDES Willowick Signs Harold Heiser As Golf Pro

WILLIAM BRAUCHER

Two boys, Rocco Cutri of Pitt and Dave Hedges of Dartmouth, recently made mistakes that cost their teams victory in the last few seconds of play. Both situations were charged with the kind of dramatic tension and suspense you read about in those football novels. This season, and many others, have seen no such striking anti-climaxes.

Cutri's last Pitt quarterback call for a forward pass on second down and with 20 seconds to play with the ball nine inches away from Ohio's goal line. The pass was grounded in the end zone for a touchback. So Ohio State tied Pitt, 6 to 6.

Hedges' last Dartmouth half-back, who with 20 seconds to play, dropped an easy forward pass that landed kerplunk in his mitts as he stood with nobody near him in Harvard's end zone. So Harvard won the game, 10 to 7.

THREE DOWNS TO GO

Cutri's error was one of confusion. Ohio State had been on offense in the last minute of play, which nullified two downs—though the scoreboard showed fourth down. The penalty, since the offense was committed within the five-yard line, was half the distance to the goal—18 inches the first time, and nine inches the second time that the Ohioans jumped the gun in their attempt to smother the rush.

Before their mistakes both young men had played the kind of football that wins All-America selection. Both were stars. Then—one little play—and they became goats.

REMEMBERING RIEGELS

After his fatal mistake of several years ago, Roy Riegels, the California center, came back and played splendid football. But the name of Riegels is associated with the idea of running the wrong way on a football field.

The Unlimited Association of Grandstand Quarterbacks will talk about Cutri's mistake for years. But, suppose that forward pass had been buried, was still in the air when the gun sounded, and had come to rest thereafter safe in the arms of a Pitt halfback! Then, what kind of a guy would Cutri be?

And suppose that Dave Hedges had crashed the ball to his chest with the same nonchalance with which Bill Dickey pockets a high hard one hot from the arm of Lefty Gomez? Wouldn't he have been an immortal hero in Green Mountain history then?

There are all kinds of passes that fall to click in the course of a football game. Many plays fail. If a quarterback could call the right play every time, a football game would become something like a track meet. If every forward pass went to its mark, there would be no point in trying anything else but forward passes.

These football players are just human kids down there trying with everything they've got to win. A fellow who errs in a crisis should have sympathy rather than the razzberry.

Such, however, is not the philosophy of the old guard who never played football, and the coach who says his way in for the privilege of burying rather than flattering Caesar.

CASEY DOES GREAT THING

The Hedges incident won new respect for Eddie Casey, Harvard's coach, from this corner of the press box. Eddie could hardly wait until the game was over. He poised on the sidelines, and with the crack of the pistol, was off and running—not to his own Harvard boys, who were in a huddle to give a cheer for Dartmouth, but to the Dartmouth team which grouped to cheer the Crimson.

He dashed up to Dave Hedges, threw his arm over the boy's shoulder and spoke words of solace.

Eddie was on the spot once or twice himself, and knows what a fellow feels like after he has muffed one!

TROY-BEAR GAME Baffles Contest Experts

Contestants of The Register's Football Scores Guessing Contest, whose consensus was correct before the U. S. C.-Stanford game, are divided in opinion as to the result of Saturday's Trojan-California contest. Three pick U. S. C., two California; one predicts a tie. Coach "Tex" Oliver, who prophesied U. S. C.'s victory over Stanford as well as U. S. C.'s triumph over the Cardinals, leans toward a Southern California victory.

Coach Oliver increased his lead last week. He is now in first place with 2080 points. Paul Wright is second with 2138, Eddie West third with 2272, Coach Bill Cooke fourth with 2279, Coach Bill Foote fifth with 2428 and Coach Clyde Patton sixth with 2614. The contestants have tried 84 games of which 12 ended in ties. Wright has 55 winners, Cooke 52, West 51, Oliver 50, Foote 49, Patton 47. Those who have guessed exact scores are Oliver 4, Cooke 2, Patton and Foote 1.

INSTRUCTOR TO ASSUME CHARGE HERE SATURDAY

The Willowick Golf club today announced the acquisition of Harold Heiser as course professional.

Heiser will take charge of the situation at the West Fifth street pay-as-you-play organization Saturday. He comes to Santa Ana from Los Angeles where he was formerly identified with such clubs as Hillcrest, Fox Hills and Ambassador.

His last post was at Hillcrest. Willowick has been without the services of a pro for several months, Dick Linares being its last instructor. Al Linares and Bob White were other former Willowick coaches.

Heiser will continue to conduct free group lessons every Wednesday. Willowick officials stated. These begin at 9 a. m. and beginners as well as more advanced players are urged to take advantage of this instruction.

The Willowick Women's club had its regular medal play tournament yesterday with Maxine Smith having low gross and Mrs. Bob Weston low net.

FOOTBALL BRIEFS

PULLMAN, Wash. — Although Washington State's second string will start the game against Idaho Saturday, Coach "Babe" Hollenberg expects to have all of his regulars in uniform ready for use.

EUGENE, Ore.—Oregon concludes heavy practice for the Oregon State football team today on a mud practice field. The Webbs will have their full manpower available Saturday. Hopes for a victory to even last year's scoreless tie ran high on the campus.

PALO ALTO.—Practically the same lineup that started against U. S. C. for Stanford will face Washington Saturday. Coach Glenn Warner announced today. The backfield will be composed of Caddell and Sim. Hillman at fullback. The Huskies were due to arrive late today.

BERKELEY.—Expecting to have their full offensive strength available for the first time this year, Coach Bill Ingram does not plan for his California Bears to wait for the "breakers" against U. S. C. Saturday. "They'll open their drive the first time they get in Trojan territory," Ingram declared. Bear supporters are pinning great faith on Hank Schalbach, speedy left halfback who is in shape again after a series of mishaps.

LOS ANGELES.—Bob Getz was Head Coach Jones' choice today to start as fullback in the U. S. C.-California game to give his team more power. Previously named Bob Morrison for the berth.

Jones inserted Getz during yesterday's drills and announced the shift for the first time. He said the 150-pound fullback would be in the line in the annual battle.

LOS ANGELES.—Coach Bill Spaulding called off the tea parties today and ordered break after breakfast. The Bruins may be aided in their quest for victory by the return of Leonard Berg, star quarterback, who has been out with injuries since early in the season.

FRESNO.—Fresno State college's Bulldogs leave here today for an intercollegiate football invasion of Arizona and Kansas. They are scheduled to meet Arizona State Teachers at Flagstaff, Saturday and Washburn college at Topeka, Kans., the following Friday.

Gaels Reach N. Y.; Coach's Wife Has Flu

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(UP)—The football variety of St. Mary's of California today completed its cross-country trip for Saturday's game with Fordham.

The squad of 33 arrived in good condition, but Mrs. E. P. Madigan, wife of Coach "Slip" Madigan, was ill with influenza.

Mrs. Madigan was removed from the train through a window. She was carried on a stretcher to an ambulance and taken to the Vanderbilt to remove Mrs. Madigan to a hospital, but her condition was improving this morning.

The squad was taken to its quarters at the Westchester Country club at Rye. A practice will be held there today. A practice at the Polo Grounds, scene of the game, is tentatively arranged for Friday.

EXPECT BEARS TO GIVE TROY HARDEST GAME

BY WALLACE RAWLES (I.N.S. Sports Writer)

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—(INS)—The University of Southern California, defending its 1931 National football title, expects its "toughest game" of the season from the University of California Saturday.

All because Orville Mohler, star quarterback, is gone, and because Coach "Navy Bill" Ingram of the Golden Grizzlies is believed to have a "surprise" ace or more up his sleeve.

At least 75,000 fans also expect the Trojans to have their hardest game, advance ticket sales indicate that many, or more, fans, will flock into Olympic Coliseum for the test that is expected to produce the season's most brilliant football.

Whether Coach Howard Jones can re-mould without Mohler a backfield, strong enough, fast enough, and easy enough, in time to stop the snarling Bears, is a matter for deep thought conjecture among Trojan fans.

After a lengthy defensive and signal drill, Coach Jones announced that Robert Getz would start at fullback instead of Bob Morrison, another sophomore, who played in practice yesterday with the second team.

The other three starting backfield men will be Homer Griffith at quarterback, Bob Erskine and Gordon Clark, halfbacks, giving the Trojans a "power backfield" expected to offset the speed merchants Coach Ingram has indicated he would start for California.

The Trojans before the season started, were pointing for the Bears, still believed here to be more powerful than Stanford, which failed again recently to scale the mighty walls of Troy.

Southern California will keep its defensive eye on Schalbach, California's triple threat man, and Arleigh Williams, particularly after

A CHAMPION? TESTIMONY IN GOLD, SILVER

"Sprouts" Elder is the world's champion and he races at the Santa Ana Municipal Bowl but few people realize just how far the London star has ridden to attain the place in the sports sun. In this picture Elder is shown with his collection of trophies, one of which is large enough for the 3-year-old boy. This chap is comfortably seated in the huge metal vase. Inset at right shows Elder wearing his English crash helmet.

Devine Off to Scout Irish Gridmen

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Aubrey Devine, assistant football coach at the University of Southern California, today was enroute to Lawrence, Kan., to scout the Notre Dame-Kansas game Saturday. He will follow the Ramblers east when they engage Navy at Cleveland and Army at New York. His trip will permit the Trojans to draw a line on Notre Dame before entertaining the Easterners here in December.

PRO FOOTBALL IS NEXT GREAT SPORT—GRANGE

By JACK CUDDEY (United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(UP)—The great American sport 20 years from now will be professional football, played at night in huge indoor stadia, "Red" Grange predicted today.

The former galloping ghost of Illinois university, probably the most publicized player in gridiron history, said the commercial football overcame the hazard of weather it would attain proportions probably greater than present day big league baseball.

Grange, completing his seventh season of pro ball and rounding out his 16th year of grid participation, spoke enthusiastically of the game's future. A member of the Chicago Bears, he's here for their National league game with the New York Giants Sunday.

"Weather has been the greatest obstacle to the professional game's progress since its beginning 10 years ago," said the henna-haired 186-pounder. "In spite of this the sport has made such rapid strides in the last three years that promoters will take steps shortly to eliminate this uncertainty."

"Already some of them are making plans to build mammoth indoor plants where the game can be played at night during five months of the year — from late September to late February. Then, it can rain or snow, but the fans will be there just the same."

Grange emphasized that most college athletic associations are not bothered by the weather. The game is sold in advance, and regardless of weather — whether the fans come or not. It doesn't matter, the money already is in the cash register.

But the big ticket sale for professional games comes on the day of the contest. Few fans turn out if the weather is bad, and the promoters are thrown for a loss that cuts down their profits on good game days.

"Commercial football is catching on amazingly," Grange continued. "There are three reasons for this: (1) The professionals play better football than collegians, (2) it gives the chap who hasn't gone to college a team to cheer for, and (3) the prices are within reach of the average man."

CHRISTIANS IN 33-24 VICTORY, LEAD 'Y' RACE

SANTA ANA CHURCH LEAGUE

Costa Mesa Community	1	1	.500
Latter Day Saints	1	1	.500
United Presbyterian	1	1	.500
First Baptist	0	2	.000

Safely over their highest peak, the First Christians today were on the shortest trail leading to the first half championship of the Santa Ana Church basketball league.

They got this way at the Y. M. C. A. last night by defeating M. E. South, 33 to 24, in a nip-and-tuck affair considerably closer than the final score indicated.

The largest crowd of the season, one that filled the entire balcony, was on hand to witness the most important game of the first half.

Jack Stewart, transfer from the University of Arizona and eligible for Santa Ana junior college's 1932 team, starred for the winners. His 20 points, garnered from all positions on the court, kept his teammates in the lead during the first and second quarters and broke up a 20-20 deadlock at the beginning of the fourth. Defensively, Stewart was everywhere. So were all the Christians who played an airtight, man-to-man defensive game.

The South Methodists were hard hit near the end of the first quarter when Orr Schuchardt, their flashy forward, received a hand injury when he hit the west wall of the gym. Schuchardt was unable to play the remaining three periods.

The first contest—United Presbyterians vs. Latter Day Saints—was won by the Saints after four quarters of even battle, 28-23. A 15-9 lead at the half won for the Mormons. Enge, Camp and Arneson starred for the winners; L. Boyle, Lockhart and M. Boyle for the losers.

Friday's games: Costa Mesa Community vs. St. Joseph's Catholic; First Baptist vs. First Methodist.

The lineups:

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Nov. 3.—(INS)—Stanford's famed ace may be put up as an annual "Big Game" prize, providing an editorial which appeared in the Stanford Daily is heeded.

Bobby Jones Golf Sought By Caliente

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(INS)—If Bobby Jones can be prevailed on to play a three-cornered match with Gene Sarazen, British and American open champion, and Olin Dutra, the P. G. A. and Metropolitan titleholder, the powers that be at Azusa Caliente in Mexico may decide to substitute this attraction as a ballyhoo and cancel the annual $15,000 open.

Baron Long figures that Jones-Sarazen-Dutra as a combination, playing 72 holes over a four-day stretch, might be just as much of a publicity-collector as 200 pros—and at half the cost.

Jones personally isn't likely to be interested in the three-cornered medal play event, but pressure may be brought to bear from the moving picture end, where Jones is planning to make additional golf shorts in California.

Elder, Grant in Match Run at Bowl Friday Night to Close Season

The match race that most motorcycle racing fans have realized would be a natural attraction for tomorrow night's closing motorcycle racing bill at the Santa Ana Bowl, was arranged today when Ray Grant, Portland flyer, signed to meet "Sprouts" Elder in a two-lap duel.

Officials have been endeavoring for the past month to get the two together for a rematch but this was impossible due to Elder's illness. In their last meeting the world's champion came home winner over Grant by the scant margin of a half-wheel's length.

On the last occasion Elder had a tremendous advantage over Grant in respect to the motor that he was riding but tomorrow it will be about an even break as far as the equipment is concerned. Elder will be aboard his English Rudge. Grant will straddle the 30:50 Harley Special which arrived recently from Milwaukee.

On the Bowl track many riders feel that they have an advantage over Elder, due to the fact that the London speed king has only ridden here on one occasion. When Referee Al Koogler counted his entry blanks today he found that he had signed Minny Wain, "Bo" Lisman, Cordy Milne, Wilbur Lamaraux, Ted Morrow and virtually all other favorites.

The management announced that all tickets purchased for last week's races will be honored, and everything points to a large crowd as well as one of the most attractive programs presented on the Orange county layout.

ELDER WINS FEATURE ON SAN DIEGO TRACK

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 3.—With thousands of motorcycle racing fans cheering him on to victory, Lloyd ("Sprouts") Elder, short-track motorcycle king, won the feature events held at Navy field last night. One of the largest crowds in motorcycle racing history greeted the champion at his first appearance here in several weeks. He left immediately following the races for Los Angeles where he will compete at White Sox park tonight. He goes to Santa Ana for his final appearance of the season Friday.

WILLARD 'D' TEAM BEATS ORANGE, 6-0

By LEONARD MAURER

Held for downs inside the 10-yard line four times in the first half, Frances Willard junior high school's Class D gridmen finally pushed over a touchdown in the third period to defeat Orange Hi's "D" eleven, 6-0, yesterday. Joe Kadawaki made the Santa Ana touchdown. He and Mac Beall were outstanding for the Indians. The lineup:

ROSENBLOOM VS. LEWIS
 SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Maxie Rosenbloom, light heavyweight champion, will box John Henry Lewis, flashy Phoenix, Ariz., Negro, in a non-title bout here Nov. 16, Promoter Frank Schuler announced today.

REOPEN BOXING PLANT NOV. 15: DEAL IS TRADE

The Orange County Athletic club at Delhi, Santa Ana's only boxing and wrestling arena, has changed hands and will reopen soon.

Henry T. Foust, who has owned the plant but has leased it to other parties since retiring from active promotion two years ago, traded the arena outright to Sam A. Sampson of Long Beach, an official of the Sampson and Perrin sign company.

Foust accepted Long Beach business property as his end, final papers being drawn up today. Sampson plans to reopen the Delhi road club at once, his first show being tentatively scheduled for Tuesday night, November 15, it is understood.

Tod Finkler (Kid Mexico), former middleweight and connected in numerous boxing promotional ventures at Delhi, will be Sampson's matchmaker.

The club will operate as an amateur house at the outset, may switch to the professional end if patronage warrants.

Mexico made amateur matches here for Promoter Elmer Wilson until the arena was closed last summer.

The Orange County Athletic club was established by Foust five years ago. For a time there was bitter rivalry between this arena and one previously operated by Boyd Ellis. Eventually, Foust's club survived but it was never considered much of a moneymaker.

LANE OPPOSES BALL GAME BROADCASTING
 HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 3.—(UP)—William H. Lane, president of the Hollywood Pacific Coast league club, reiterated his opposition to radio broadcasts of baseball games and night playing, before leaving last night for Salt Lake to attend a meeting of league officials.

"Citing our own experience," Lane said, "we drew $31,843 in 1931 and 149,501 in 1932, a drop of more than 50 per cent. We were fighting for the pennant almost to the end, and I believe we outdrew any other club in the league except Portland."

"For a start I wouldn't ban night games altogether, but limit them to twice a week. I believe a number of leagues plan to ban radio. It has, I am sure, caused us plenty of loss in revenue. The real sufferer is the shut-out and I don't know how we can be about him, but I do know we can't go on losing money like this. Conservatively, the club dropped $200,000 last season."

Los Angeles club officials, owners of Wrigley field where the Hollywood team plays, have expressed their unqualified approval of the broadcasts and said they would continue to do so regardless of what action league officials attempted to take on the subject.

PEPPERS CALL OFF SAINT SCRIMMAGE
 Santa Ana Hi did not scrimmage today with Garden Grove after all. The Saint-Pepper work-out, announced yesterday, was called off by Coach John Ward who did not care to risk injury to any of his players with their important Anaheim scuffle just around the corner.

Santa Ana scrimmaged against Santa Ana junior college yesterday, the practice being especially good for both sides because Citrus, the Dons' Saturday rival, uses the Notre Dame shift.

Proposed changes, inaugurated for the first time yesterday, may lead up to the starting backfield for Santa Ana junior college against Citrus at Azusa Saturday.

With experiments still under way after three days of drill, following Riverside's 13-0 victory over the Dons last week, Coach Bill Cook admits that such a combination is highly probable.

TWO OFFICERS EASTERN STAR HONOR GUESTS

ORANGE, Nov. 3.—Mrs. H. L. Bascom, worthy matron of Scepter chapter, O. E. S., and F. L. Carrier, worthy patron of the organization, were guests of honor last night at a party given in the parlors of the Masonic hall with officers and substitutes as hosts. Baskets of deep red poinsettias were used in decorating the rooms and bridge and crotle were the diversions of the evening. At bridge, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Gruwell made high scores and were given attractive awards, while at crotle, Frank Eys scored high.

Mrs. Edgar M. Chapman, associate matron of the chapter, presented the honor guests with the gifts from the officers and substitutes who have served with them during the past year. She read an original poem written by Mrs. Frank Eys, a tribute to the many fine qualities of the two officers which have endeared them to their associates and which have contributed largely to the success of the past year's activities.

Mrs. Bascom was presented with a hammered silver tea set and Mr. Carrier with a pair of solid gold cuff links holding the Masonic emblem. At the close of the evening these presents were ushered into the dining room, where tables had been arranged in the shape of a star centered with a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums and these flowers were used in furthering a decorative motive of black and yellow emphasizing the Halloween season. Tables were lighted with tall yellow and black tapers set in matching holders. Favors were Halloween and a tiny taper burned at each twilight.

At the regular meeting of the chapter on November 10 new officers are to be elected.

Instructor Talks On Chinese Mines, Bandits for Club

ORANGE, Nov. 3.—Arthur Terrill, who spent four years in China as an engineer, was the speaker at the Orange Lions club luncheon Wednesday. Mr. Terrill who is an instructor in the Fullerton Junior college, told of penetrating country in Western China, seldom before explored, in the interests of mining work. He related incidents in connection with the bandits who infest the country and of the rugged character of the land.

The talk was illustrated with slides. Gene Hart was program chairman. It was announced that the attendance contest still showed 100 per cent attendance at meetings. The contest closes next week. Buhl Wing presided.

Hold Discussion On Amendments

ORANGE, Nov. 3.—Members of the 20-30 club spent last evening in the discussion of the 20 amendments to come before voters Tuesday, when they met in regular session at Robinson's tavern. Roy Edwards led the discussion and gave an impartial resume of the proposed measures.

The meeting was in charge of the president, Verna G. Wolfe, and Dr. Walter C. Leitch was program chairman. A straw vote was taken, resulting in a vote of 10 for Hoover and five for Roosevelt.

IMPORTANCE OF RE-ELECTING HOOVER STRESSED IN TALK AT RALLY OF REPUBLICAN WOMEN

ORANGE, Nov. 3.—Calling attention to the fact that the women of California had undoubtedly changed the map of Europe by their vote in the year of 1916, when it was the women's vote which swung the election of that year to Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. Dorothy Lenroot Bromberg, deputy district attorney of Los Angeles, emphasized the importance of re-electing Herbert Hoover as president at a tea given by Republican women here yesterday.

The tea, held in the Woman's clubhouse, was well attended. Mrs. Bromberg traced the world depression which had occurred in many other countries before it reached America and told of the effect of the abandonment of the gold standard by England and other European countries had had on America.

The speaker told in forceful language of the wise measures Hoover had taken to minimize the effects of world depression.

Mrs. Louise Mook, of Santa Ana, presided at the meeting and answered questions on the amendments.

Preceding Mrs. Bromberg's talk, Neils Edwards, candidate for state senate, gave a short talk urging voters to vote "no" on No. 1 and No. 2 and on No. 5, James Utt, candidate for assembly, made a brief talk and Howard Erwin, of Fullerton, chairman of the County Central committee, was introduced.

Tea was served in the clubhouse lobby and Mrs. R. W. Jones and Mrs. Justus Cramer poured. Violin solos by George W. Evans, of Santa Ana and Los Angeles, were a part of a musical program. Miss Adelaide Proctor accompanied him.

plan to remain for an extended visit with relatives. They are making the trip by automobile and expect to stop at Fort Worth, Tex., Oklahoma City, Okla., and St. Joseph, Mo., en route to Arkansas.

Mrs. Edna Parks and Miss Azalia Behermeyer spent a recent day in Hollywood with Mr. and Mrs. Willis J. Gould. Mrs. Gould was formerly Miss Dorothy Haynes of Orange.

The Alice Lewis Guild of the First Presbyterian church will meet the evening of November 14 at 7:30 o'clock in the church. It was announced today. There was no meeting Monday evening as scheduled.

Miss Ella Fouch, of Riverside, and Los Angeles, formerly of Orange, is spending this week here with friends.

NEW FEATURES IN PHILCO RECEIVERS

New models of the Philco radio receiving sets now on display at the Liggett Radio shop on North Broadway, feature the shadow tuning device, which clearly shows the person operating the set when the maximum clearness is obtained.

Through the operation of a system of magnets and electrical impulses, on an illuminated dial directly above the station dial a shadow appears which is narrowest when the station tuned in is at the most efficient point.

The new Philco sets are equipped with 5.5 volt tubes instead of the weaker voltage tubes of other sets, according to information from the Liggett shop.

Picnics and Reunions

PENNSYLVANIA

The Pennsylvania State society will hold its annual fall picnic reunion, all day, Saturday, November 5, in Sycamore Grove park, Los Angeles. Everyone on the Keystone State is invited. The county registration will be open all day and hot coffee served. The program of music and addresses will be given after the basket dinner hour. Tourists are especially invited.

WORKERS LIST AT POSTOFFICE CLOSED

With four times as many applications already filed as there are positions to be filled for the extra Christmas work, Superintendent of Mails L. F. Harvey today announced that it would be useless for anyone else to make application at the post office for work during the holidays.

Extra help that was employed last year will be used again this year, he pointed out, because of the fact that they are already bonded, as employees of the post office must be.

Gypsies Get $20 At Gomez Home

Gypsies came to the home of Mrs. G. Gomez, of 1006 West First street yesterday to show her a few tricks. They did. It cost Mrs. Gomez $20, she reported to police. The tricks weren't supposed to cost anything, but $20 Mrs. Gomez had about the house was mysteriously missing when the gypsies got through with their game.

INTERESTING DISPLAY OF OLD BABY DRESSES ATTRACTS ATTENTION

Baby dresses of nainsook, baby dresses of sheer net darned in elaborate designs, others of fine cambric or of long cloth with a multitude of fine embroidery stitches; some with elaborate panels of crocheted lace; some with rows of insertion and embroidery, featherstitching and hand-made entre-doux; some fashioned with little petticoats quite as elaborate in design as the dress, its laces and fancy stitches to match those of the outer garment. Such are some of the baby clothes of yester-year which this week are attracting attention to the windows of the Betty Rose shop on North Broadway.

When Mrs. Rose Walker announced that she was planning a window display of old time baby garments if her patrons would loan some of their cherished mementoes of a day that is past, she anticipated perhaps a dozen little dresses to be shown in one display window.

But so much interest was aroused by the announcement that more than 200 garments in a wide variety of fashion and material were loaned. The prize offered for the oldest dress went to Miss Lois Gould of South Pixley street, Orange, who loaned a nainsook dress made in England and worn by one of her ancestors in 1796, making it 136 years old. With it, she loaned two infant's caps, one of lace and one of embroidery, made by her grandmother, Mary Ann Matthews, Gould, born in 1821 in Somerset, England.

Heirlooms on Exhibit

Second in point of age among the little garments on display, is a beautifully embroidered dress made in 1823, a marvel of delicate hand work. With the Victorian days, came equally fine workmanship, all the dresses for tiny babies being distinguished by their extreme length and the amount of embroidery on ruffles and panels.

Of equal interest are the dresses for older children, one dainty pink mull of antebellum days, looking like "Godey's Lady's Book," having been worn by a cousin of Mrs. Reuben Palmer's more than 80 years ago. A quaintly braided dress for a tiny boy, was loaned by Mrs. E. E. Keech, and is of the Civil war period.

Mrs. Paul Bailey loaned a little barred dimity dress made by her grandmother more than 75 years ago. Fine drawwork adorns the dress loaned by Mrs. William Spurgeon, "Mother of Santa Ana," but mother also of two sons, one of whom wore the dainty garment as his first short dress back in 1889, later weeping when he had his first pair of trousers, according to his mother's reminiscences.

Other entries shown with the baby clothes are allied articles, including a crocheted square bearing the Lord's prayer, and made in 1768—while the colonies were still under British rule. This was loaned by Mrs. Edith Snow, who also loaned a beautiful doll and a quaint cradle, with other articles of an early day.

Nor were all the loans from women. One little lavender flowered print with fitted waist and puffed sleeves, was loaned by a man who wore it when he was a year old—nearly 80 years ago. D. L. Larkin, a grandson of Sir Andrew Hale, brought in a boy's basque dress worn in 1875, and many men have offered to loan equally cherished possessions and have stopped to see the display both in the windows and within the store.

The garments will remain on display for another week, and today Mrs. Walker is issuing invitations to the public to stop and see them.

Supervisors Adopt New Rubbish Law

Through an ordinance adopted by the board of supervisors at the last meeting, dumping of rubbish, trash or refuse on land adjoining public highways is banned. The ordinance will become effective within 30 days.

Under the new ordinance it will be unlawful to dump rubbish, trash or refuse with 500 feet of any dwelling or 1000 feet of a public highway. Violation of the ordinance will be considered a misdemeanor and punishable by a fine of not more than $500 or six months in the county jail.

POSTPONE AWARDED OF ROAD CONTRACT

Acting upon the recommendation of Nat H. Neff, county highway superintendent, the board of supervisors has postponed award of contract for grading a portion of Bolsa avenue from Seal Beach across the swamp, for one week.

Neff asked for the delay in order to conduct further investigation of the bids.

The work to be done is a continuation of West First street and calls for grading of approximately one mile and a half of the route to Seal Beach. Neff estimated the cost of the work at approximately $6500. The lowest bid submitted Tuesday when the bids were opened was that of the C. C. Payne Construction company and called for an expenditure of $7,969.95.

Other bids submitted were: Willits and Dempsey, $9,829.63; Mundo Engineering company, $9,850.50; C. G. Willis and Sons, $10,441.53; G. A. Gleibisch, $10,746, and L. D. Reynolds, $12,178.50.

Give Benefit For Community Chest

In order to raise the Community Chest quota for the Edison company here, a benefit program was staged Tuesday night in the Edison garage on Washington street.

"Spiky" Kenyon acted as master of ceremonies during the evening. The program included selections by The Banjo-ers, a team composed of Calvin Shores and George Keith; a whistling solo by Dorothy Winters; a vocal duet by Lela McDanel and Faye Bortz; a character number by Mrs. Grotzback and several girls and a negro skit presented by George Richardson.

Dancing numbers were presented by Patty Colvin and Barry McPhee Jr., Shirley Morris and Francis Cookerly, Shirley McPhee, Senorita Armendaris, Jean Ann McCarty, Peggy Massey and Geraldine Richards.

Refreshments were served during the evening.

TREAT A COLD IN THE FIRST STAGE —and You Nip It in the Bud!

A cold ordinarily progresses through three stages: The Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage 1 to 3 days; the Mucous Secretion Stage. Relief in the first stage is far easier than in the later stages. In fact, it is taking chances to let a cold run beyond 24 hours.

As soon as you catch a cold the wise thing to do is to take Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. This famous tablet stops a cold quickly because it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels. It kills the cold germs and fever in the system. It relieves the headache and grippiness feeling. It tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack. That is the treatment a cold requires!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is effective, but harmless. Contains no narcotics and produces no bad after effects. For years it has been the reliance of thousands in all cases of colds and grippe. Every drug store in America sells Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine. Handy, pocket-size box, cellophane-wrapped. Get it today. Resist a substitute.—Adv.

CLEMENCY RECORD SET BY GOVERNOR

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 3.—(UP)—Governor Rolph has established a record for acts of executive clemency.

In a report being prepared for submission to the 1933 legislature, the governor reveals he has granted clemency in 138 cases since he assumed office 22 months ago.

During this period, Governor Rolph has granted 46 reprieves, 31 commutations and 61 pardons, including 52 for the restoration of citizenship.

During his four year term Governor C. C. Young granted eight pardons, six commutations and seven reprieves, and released six persons from prison, state records show.

Missing Woman Is Sought By Police

Santa Ana police are today seeking a woman named St. Cyr, approximately 50 years of age, small, weighing about 100 pounds and when last seen was wearing a brown suit.

The woman rented an apartment from Mrs. Belle Lawrence at 712 Bush street on October 20. On October 25, she disappeared after saying she was going downtown to seek employment in a restaurant.

All her belongings are still in her rooms and her disappearance has a mysterious air about it, police said.

250 PRESENT FOR CHURCH CONVENTION

More than 250 attended the convention of education and inspiration of Santa Ana District Christian churches in session all day Tuesday at Fullerton church, where state and national work of the Disciples of Christ was enlarged upon, as a means of straightening the chaotic affairs of the world. At the afternoon session, 45 members of the Alhambra church presented a missionary program.

Dr. J. H. Booth, of Indianapolis, was a speaker. The Rev. George Tinsley and his church members were hosts at a covered dish dinner that preceded the evening session.

The next district group meeting will be in January. The place was not set.

Hold S. A. Man For Assault, Battery

Charged with assault and battery, Rosario Ruiz, 22, resident of Seventeenth street and the Garden Grove road, was today in the county jail awaiting trial, set for 2 p. m. November 9, in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court.

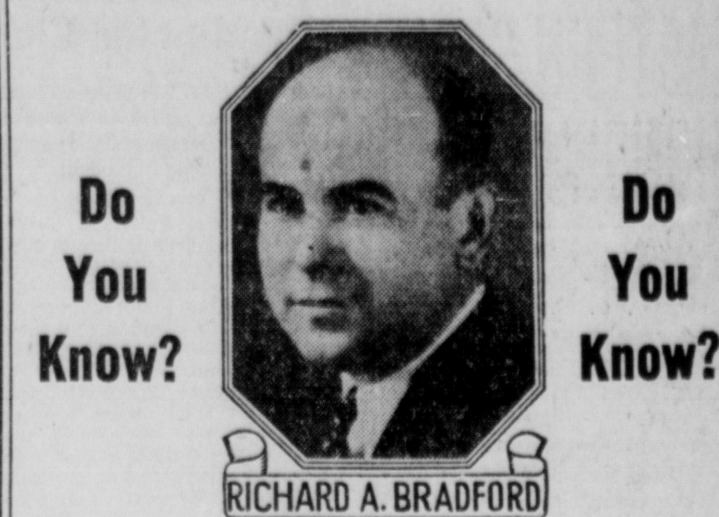

The man was arrested by sheriff's officers Tuesday night, on a complaint signed by J. Martinez, former proprietor of a dance hall at that location. Ruiz is alleged to have struck Martinez two weeks ago. Bail of $100 was set in his case which was not made.

Report Theft Of Copper From R. R.

Five hundred pounds of copper band has been reported stolen from the Santa Fe watch tower, where the Pacific Electric railroad crosses the Santa Fe tracks, between Santa Ana and Orange. The copper is worth approximately $50. The theft was reported by C. R. Smith, of the Pacific Electric Railway company.

DO YOU WANT YOUR TAXES INCREASED?

DO NOT BE MISLED!

Amendment No. 9 would cause the imposition of

- A new State Income Tax on what you earn;
- A new selective State Sales Tax on what you buy;
- A new State Ad Valorem Tax on what you own.

Dr. David Prescott Barrows, Professor of Political Science, former President of the University of California has this to say about Amendment No. 9:

"This initiative measure proposes to transfer a further proportion of school support from the counties to the state. Its announced purpose is also to reduce local taxes on real estate and personal property. The latter object may be desirable, but there is reason to believe that this initiative measure would leave our tax system—and ultimately our land tax burden—in a worse situation than we have already. The measure increases the cost of education and compels the state to find the additional money. . . . Proposition No. 9 should be voted down."

Return N. T. Edwards To the State Senate

Support of the existing law is essential to public interest and safety.

I hope the people of California will vote "NO" on No. 1, and defeat the repeal of the Wright Act.

—SENATOR N. T. EDWARDS.

Upon his record of outstanding achievement for all of Orange County, and his unfaltering stand upon moral issues affecting the welfare of the home and community, State Senator N. T. Edwards is entitled to re-election Tuesday by the people of Orange county.

He is the type of progressive, substantial citizen needed to help steer California through the present economic and political rapids.

The benefits of Edwards' experience and legislative acts are not confined to any party, therefore he is receiving widespread support from Republicans, Democrats, and members of all other parties. He is a representative of the PEOPLE of Orange county—not any single party or group.

As a businessman, Supervisor, State Highway Commissioner, and State Senator, Nels Edwards has an enviable record of public service, and has won recognition at Sacramento for the needs and desires of his constituents as few have done.

WILL PURCHASE NEW UNIFORMS FOR H. S. BAND

STUDENTS AT H. S. AND J. C. BACK HOOVER

In spite of the fact that the Santa Ana Board of Education is unable to financially assist the project, bands of the Santa Ana High school and Junior college will be equipped with new uniforms, it was announced today by D. K. Hammond, head of both schools.

Uniforms for the high school band, probably will consist of Russian blouses similar to those worn by the Trojan band, white caps and trousers. The members of the band will provide their own trousers and the student body fund will be used in purchasing the blouses and caps. The junior college band uniform will be of a dark jacket and Spanish hats.

Hammond appeared before the board of education Tuesday and asked that body to give financial assistance to the students in purchasing the uniforms. He asked that the money usually spent in preparing a float for the Armistice Day parade be turned over to the band. He estimated that help from the school board to the extent of $200 for the high school and $100 for the college would be ample.

Allen Kidder, president of the high school student body and captain of the football team, attended the board meeting and urged assistance in financing the purchase of uniforms for the band. He said that there are 35 members of the band but it is difficult to get them to appear for public appearances because of the old uniforms they now are wearing. He said that with uniforms that would place them on an equal with other high school bands he believed that school musicians would take a greater interest in the band.

Members of the board indicated their willingness to give the students financial aid except for the few which prevent school funds being paid for uniforms of any type, or for personal athletic equipment.

25,000 FASCISTS CELEBRATE MARCH

Twenty-five thousand black-shirts, thousands bearing standards, crowded the Piazza Venezia at Rome, Italy, as shown here to pledge renewed allegiance to their leader, Premier Benito Mussolini, at the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the Fascists' march on Rome. In the inset, Il Duce is seen exhorting his followers to hold fast to the gains accomplished in the last decade. He is wearing the familiar black shirt with but one decoration—that commemorating the march on Rome.

BIG MOUNTED SECTION FOR LEGION PARADE

Competition between five riding clubs with entries in the county-wide Armistice day parade at Fullerton next Friday is expected to bring a particularly colorful feature to the mounted division according to reports of plans received by the celebration committee today.

Nearly 300 horses and riders are expected to participate in the parade and 250 horses are scheduled for various features of the western program at El Rodeo club on Valencia avenue north of Placentia in the afternoon.

While Orange county's El Rodeo club is expected to have the largest entry, competition will be particularly keen with the Western Riding and Polo club entries from Artesia and the Rabidoux club from Riverside. In addition horses and riders from the Sycamore Canyon club at Whittier and the Puente club will also appear in the parade and rodeo program following.

A. D. Moodie of Fullerton, president of El Rodeo club and Guy Campbell of Hillcrest stables, Fullerton, have taken a leading part in obtaining mounted entries for the parade and will receive additional applications.

Fifteen events are slated for the rodeo entertainment at 8:30 p.m. at El Rodeo club's arena. These are mostly western in nature although harness racing will be included. Stock horse features, cow pony races, bucking horses, goat roping and other rodeo stunts are on the program with appropriate prizes for winners.

W. B. Pyles of Huntington Park will direct the rodeo and Dick Jones of Orange will be assistant. A band will be provided from the Armistice day celebration to play during the rodeo program.

Preparations of detailed instructions to entrants as to the point of formation and entry in the parade have been prepared and are being issued by the parade committee. Division captains have

COUNTY PEACE OFFICERS HEAR JUDGE DAWSON

In his more serious moments, Judge Leroy Dawson of the Los Angeles night court, who spoke before the Orange County Peace Officers association at their regular meeting last night, stated that the hardest cases to deal with involved those who were no longer afraid of punishment.

Judge Dawson's droll philosophy kept his audience laughing most of the evening. The judiciary, he said, must develop the idea that all cases cannot be measured by the same yardstick, but the background must be taken into consideration. Public criticism has a dire effect on cases, he explained, as the judge offices consider who, instead of what has been done, which of course, he said, is not right. If citizens would report law breakers and keep their eyes open there would be less criticism of the police, and the judiciary would then develop the "what is the law, not who."

At the short business meeting, the Thanksgiving night dance at the Rendezvous ballroom at Balboa was discussed and those in charge of the ticket sale, urged to put forth their efforts at once, for the success of the affair.

The next meeting of the association will be held in Fullerton, December 7, it was announced.

A dinner preceding the meeting was served by the W.R.C. of La Habra, and local musicians furnished music during the dinner hour. Seventy-two attended the dinner.

Information Given On Cotton Jobs

Special Agent A. J. Norton of the United States Department of Labor, employment service, today issued a statement advising persons against going to Arizona to pick cotton.

Welfare organizations in Arizona are overburdened now, he pointed out, and would not be able to care for anyone that came there seeking work at the low rates offered.

However, he said, those that wish to pick cotton at the rate offered, which is 50 cents a hundred pounds, may obtain work by applying at the United States employment service agent at Bakersfield.

CHARGE OF FENCED BEACH IS DENIED

A public statement was issued today by Ole Hansen of San Clemente denying that any beach at San Clemente has ever been fenced in, in answer to published statements.

"I desire to say," he said, "that no beach has ever been fenced in for a single foot at San Clemente. Fishermen and bathers have always been welcome. Two miles of our beach is publicly owned and every foot of the other three miles is open to the public for beach purposes and always has been."

The land developer is president of the "Save the Beaches League," which is combating Proposition No. 11 on the November ballot.

MOTOR CARAVAN TO MAKE TOUR NEXT SATURDAY

Completion of plans for the big dry rally and parade to be staged by young people's church groups of Orange county throughout the county Saturday night was announced today by Louise Vollmer, president of the Santa Ana Methodist church Epworth league.

All groups from Orange county churches will meet at the Fullerton city park at 6:30 o'clock Saturday night when a brief "pep" talk will be delivered by Dr. A. H. Briggs, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league.

Following the speech and rally at the Fullerton park, a large caravan of cars decorated with signs asking support of the Wright act and the Eighteenth amendment, will travel throughout the county.

The motored will leave Fullerton after traveling through the city, for Anaheim, then on to Orange, Santa Ana, Balboa, Newport Beach and Huntington Beach.

The parade of cars containing the young people will be given an escort of motorcycle officers.

The rally and parade is the contribution of all young people's church groups in the county, headed by the Epworth League Alliance of Orange County, towards the campaign to keep national and state dry laws in force and effect.

Fishing in Mexican waters is prohibited except by government permit, according to a new law.

Plans for Christmas Luncheon Made By Mayflower Club

Mayflower club members made plans for their Christmas party when they met Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. William Lawrence and her mother, Mrs. J. A. Cubley, in the former's home, 1022 Halladay street.

The party will be a holiday luncheon, to be held at 1 o'clock in the afternoon of December 6 in the Doris Kathryn Tea Shoppe. Those unable to attend are to notify Mrs. Laura Sanborn, chairman on reservations and arrangements.

As a result of Tuesday's meeting, club members have a large supply of fruits, jellies and jams to be taken to Orange County Health camp by Mrs. Bertha Helmer.

Members were especially happy to welcome back to their group, Miss Allie Bennett, one of the first members of the club, who has been in the east for the past three years. During her absence, she had retained honorary membership in the organization.

Afternoon hours were spent in sewing and playing cards. Concluding the affair, the mother and daughter hostesses served delicious refreshments in a setting provided by chrysanthemums and other pretty flowers of the season.

Those sharing the hospitality of Mrs. Lawrence and Mrs. Cubley were Mesdames Fannie Cunningham, Edward Coehms, Florence Ford, E. E. Frisby, P. T. Isherwood, M. R. Kellogg, R. E. Smith, V. C. Shidler, Laura Sanborn, Amelia Perkins, Archie Perkins and small son, Roger, J. W. Parkinson, A. C. Wiebe, J. H. Patterson, Bertha Helmer, K. W. Bell, Miss Allie Bennett and a special guest, her sister, Mrs. Zabel.

C. E. Party Enjoyed In Orange Home

Among lively groups celebrating with Halloween parties was the Intermediate Christian Endeavor of the United Brethren church whose members were invited to the R. L. Hager home, 143 West Culver street, Orange, to enjoy the hospitality planned by Mrs. Hager and Mrs. J. H. Noble.

Greeted upon arrival by a tall and silent specter, the young people speculated freely upon the ghost's identity and were considerably surprised at the close of the evening to discover that it was one of their hostesses, Mrs. Noble.

A series of novel games had been planned, and since all were typical of the season, they seemed doubly appropriate amidst the clever decorations contrived by Mrs. Hager and Mrs. Noble. Winners in each contest were rewarded with Halloween trophies.

At the refreshment hour, climaxing the evening's fun, all were gathered about a table where a witch and her children formed the centerpiece. The brew in the cauldron proved to contain fortunes for each one present. Small pumpkins, fashioned from oranges, nut baskets and even the napkins contained the prevailing motif as did the inviting menu served.

C. E. members present included the Misses Naomi Denny, Pauline Chapman, Lucille Emmerson, Santa Ana, and Charlotte Colby of Tustin, Messrs. Charles Harrison, Kenneth Gammell and Robert Engleish of this city together with their superintendents, O. C. Denny, and the hostesses, Mrs. Noble and Mrs. Hager, both of Orange.

Political Questions Discussed Before Woman's Club

Preliminary to their business and program meeting Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock Santa Ana Woman's club members spent a helpful hour in folding Christmas seals for the tuberculous association, meeting early at the board of education building for that purpose.

Mrs. J. D. Watkins, president, called the club meeting to order promptly at 2 o'clock for the discussion of various measures to arise next Tuesday at election day. Frank A. Henderson, city superintendent of schools was the first speaker introduced and gave an illuminating talk on the fifth and sixteenth amendments, arousing a spirited discussion during which additional points of interest were brought out.

The eleventh amendment provided a fertile field for D. A. Jones of Huntington Beach, who presented many pictures of the beaches, the oil well system, etc., in support of what he had to say relative to the question.

Mrs. W. J. Read's talk on "Good Citizenship" seemed thoroughly in keeping with the political atmosphere of the afternoon, since she dwelt on civic duties as well as those of the home, showing how closely related were the two.

Mrs. Charles C. Oakes reported on the recent county convention in Placerville, reading a report sent by Mrs. J. Bohlander, in addition to her own interesting resume.

Mrs. J. G. Limbird followed with her report of various activities of the day, the three accounts giving a clear picture of events of interest at the conclude.

Plans for the Southern District convention at Palm Springs on November 16, 17 and 18, were discussed and Mrs. C. C. Oakes and Mrs. William H. Wells were named as official delegates, with Mrs. H. D. McVain and Mrs. William Whitehead chosen as alternates.

Other future events announced included the visit today of country club women to the jail and detention home according to a plan of Mrs. C. G. McCracken, county chairman of institutional relations, and the plans for the woman's club meeting of November 15, in the Doris Kathryn Tea Shoppe. The afternoon session will be preceded by the study section meeting under the direction of Dr. Evelyn Peck, Philanthropic section members will meet Tuesday afternoon, November 8, with Mrs. J. D. Watkins, 915 North Sycamore street.

Party for Musicians Follows Program

After Orange County Killwillies had given a musical program Tuesday night over KHRZ as a feature of an entertainment provided by friends of Sam Collins in the interests of his candidacy in the coming election, they were guests at an informal party in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Baker, 1315 Martha Lane.

As a conclusion to the social time, Mr. and Mrs. Baker served refreshments.

Members of the Killwillies who attended included Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Babcock, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Wilson, Edward Beaudette, Frederick Sanford, Le Roy Finster. Others in the group were the Messrs. Mary Baxter and Peggy Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Baker and sons, Wayne and Howard Baker.

Quintet of Hostesses Join Party Guests In Gift Shower

It was in the J. R. Harbour home in Tustin, that one of the pleasantest of the week's parties found setting on a recent evening, with guests enjoying the hospitality extended by a hostess group that included Mrs. Harbour, Mrs. Ralph Stone, Mrs. Garrett Brader, Mrs. George Furtch and Mrs. Thomas Shedd.

Chrysanthemums in a variety of soft autumnal shades were used in artistic profusion to brighten the home, and tables were placed amidst the flowers for a session of court whist. Before the distribution of tally cards for the contest, all the guests joined in demonstrating to Mrs. Jack Riley, the guest of honor, a very special gift of honor. For they showered her with a great array of dainty gifts for a layette.

In the whist games that ensued, Mrs. Forrest Collar and Mrs. Jerome Kidd also came in for a share of the good fortune for each received a prize for special score in the games.

Halloween was suggested by the appointments of each table when refreshments were served, for covers were artistic with hell-dog designs, the same motif appearing in napkins and quaint nut cups, while pumpkin pie topped with whipped cream and served with amber coffee, carried the autumnal suggestion yet further.

Enjoying the pleasant friendliness of the evening were Mesdames J. R. Harbour, Ralph Stone, Garrett Brader, George Furtch and Thomas Shedd, the hostess group; their honoree, Mrs. Jack Riley, and Mesdames Floyd Hawkins, Frank Carter, William Mattis, H. ## Auxiliary Luncheon And Bridge Set For Tomorrow

Despite the counter attractions offered by a succession of Halloween events and the press of work as election day draws near, members of the American Legion auxiliary are finding time to present a bridge luncheon for the auxiliary and its friends, the event to be held tomorrow afternoon in Legion clubhouse under the direction of Mrs. George H. Sullivan and her committee.

Mrs. Sullivan as chairman of the auxiliary ways and means committee, will be assisted by other members of that group, Mrs. J. B. Tucker, Mrs. Harold Brown and Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis, in addition to Mrs. Ed. Maler, Mrs. Frank Corey and Mrs. Glenn Cave, in making the party a success.

Luncheon will be served promptly at 1 o'clock, auction bridge to be played in the ensuing hours of the afternoon. Patriotic decorations will pay deference to the approaching Armistice Day, and will distinguish both the luncheon tables and the bridge appointments. Prizes in bridge will include first, second and consolation.

Mrs. Sullivan today pointed out that reservations for the festivity would be received yet tonight and that she might be reached by telephoning 4072M.

Smith-Walter Wedding Takes Place In Arizona

Arch Smith, son of Mrs. Juliette Smith of 122 East Eleventh street, and his bride, the former Miss Rosina M. Walter of 1619 French street, were expected to return to Santa Ana today or tomorrow from Tuma, Ariz., where they were married Monday local friends have learned. Bride and groom were unattended at the ceremony, but no other details concerning the rites could be ascertained. It is expected that the couple will make their home in the former Walter residence on French street.

Mrs. Smith has resided in Santa Ana for a number of years, and taught formerly in Ocean Park, Wash., and now associated with the Harris Brothers real estate concern, made his home for eight years on Mabury street, where he owned a ranch. He spent a subsequent period in San Bernardino and Redlands, returning to Santa Ana a little over a year ago.

YOU and your Friends

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. McMahon and sons, Raymond Jr. and Michael, have returned to their home on South Main street, from a trip to San Francisco and Oakland where they enjoyed pleasant visits. They also stopped in Glendale where they renewed associations with friends and neighbors in their former home. Mr. McMahon has resumed his duties at the Southern California Edison company substation on South Main street.

C. A. Samuelson has returned to his home at 540 West First street, Tustin, after several months' absence in Charlton, Iowa, on business connected with his farming interests there. He also made a business trip to Emporia, Kans., and en route home, stopped in Alva, Okla., for a visit with his brother, Otis Samuelson.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Samuelson and their daughter, Miss Miriam Samuelson, are contemplating an early removal from their present address, 540 West First street, Tustin, to Santa Ana, where they will be located at 2021 Greenleaf street, and where Mr. Samuelson will be nearer his ranch.

Mrs. W. L. Grubb has returned to her home, 119 Edgewood Road, after several weeks spent in Homer, Alaska. Mrs. Grubb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grubb, left this week by plane for a few days' stay in San Francisco.

Mrs. J. L. Steffensen, 911 West Tenth street, attended a banquet honoring former President Rubio Ortiz, of Mexico, given Monday, October 31, by the Council of International Relations at Vista Del Arroyo hotel. She went as the guest of her father, J. A. Batten, director of the Inter-America Foundation.

Mrs. Fannie M. Lacy of 1016 West Third street is enjoying a visit of several days from her daughter, Mrs. H. N. Seagr of Alhambra, who arrived yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mang of Anaheim and Mrs. Fannie M. Lacy of this city were among Orange county folk traveling to Long Beach Tuesday night to attend a meeting of the Rebekah lodge of that city at which Mrs. Clara Gilmore of Stockton, state president, made her official visit.

Mrs. Robert E. Smith, who has been spending an extended period in Rolla, Mo., and other points in that district, has just returned to her home at 1312 Martha Lane. She was accompanied west by her niece, Miss Kathryn Belle Bolton of Rolla, Mo., who will remain in Santa Ana for an indefinite period.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Ketter and son, James, have returned to their home in Redondo Beach after a month's stay with Robert E. Smith, 1312 Martha Lane.

George Nay and daughter, Miss Ida Nay, of 819 West Third street, plan to spend the coming week end with their daughter and sister, Mrs. Ray Morrill, of Pasadena.

Bridge Playing Group Holds Session With Mrs. Newcomb

All in golden yellow were table and bridge appointments arranged yesterday by Mrs. Fred Newcomb Jr. for the pleasure of her sister members of a two-table contract bridge group. The club met at 1 o'clock and its members found everything in readiness for a session, a dainty dessert course immediately upon their arrival in the Newcomb home on Tustin avenue.

Slim yellow tapers each tied with a flaring bow of yellow tulle, filled the crystal candlesticks used for centering the small tables. Shaggy chrysanthemums ranging from clear yellow to bronze, were grouped in baskets and vases.

Contract in the afternoon yielded two prizes the club gift of a and tancer, secured by Mrs. Loyal King, and a guest prize awarded Mrs. Catherine Marble. Mrs. Newcomb's hospitality was extended Mrs. Cassius Paul, Mrs. E. W. Spruance, Mrs. Orlyn Robertson, Mrs. Clarence Nickson, Mrs. Loyal King and Mrs. Jack Fisher, members, and Mrs. Catherine Marble, a guest.

Church Societies

Calvary Church

Mrs. Cameron Townsend, a retired missionary from Guatemala, was a special guest of the executive committee of the Woman's Missionary society of Calvary church Tuesday when officers gathered for an all day prayer and business meeting in the home of Mrs. Frank E. Lindgren, 810 Kileon drive. Pink roses were used in floral decorations.

The president, Mrs. Louis J. Gall, presided. Devotions were in charge of Mrs. L. D. Mercereau. Mrs. Charles H. Baldwin invited the executive officers to hold their meeting December 6 in her home, 171 Eighteenth street, Costa Mesa. The Woman's Missionary society will hold prayer meetings at 2 o'clock on the afternoons of November 10 and December 1 in the lounge of Ebell clubhouse.

The next all day meeting of the society will be held November 17 in the home of Mrs. Milo B. Allen, Garden Grove.

Guests, other than Mrs. Townsend at Tuesday's meeting, were Mrs. Ralph J. Haynes and Mrs. Sherman Buck. Members of the executive committee present were Mesdames Louis J. Gall, W. M. ## Church Members Honor Bears for Thirteen Years of Service

Arranged as a final get-together before Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Bear leave for the six months leave granted them from their duties at First Presbyterian church, the party given in their honor Tuesday night actually commemorated 13 years of service in behalf of the church by this couple. Mrs. Bear has served as superintendent of the Junior Sunday school department, while Mr. Bear has been assistant superintendent. The entertainment was staged in the J. R. Moore home at 424 West Second street by teachers of the Sunday school.

Members of the party indulged in a variety of games, disbanding after refreshments of pumpkin pie, coffee and nuts had been served by Mr. and Mrs. Moore and their several assistants. Mr. and Mrs. Bear will spend their leave in Santa Ana, guests learned.

Assembled for the courtesy were the Rev. O. Scott McFarland, pastor, and Mrs. McFarland; Messrs. and Mesdames M. B. Youel, C. H. Baird, George Lewis, C. N. Archer, Guy H. Christian, R. J. Brown, Miss Margaret Gaebe, Ted Jesse, the guests of honor, Mr. and Mrs. Bear, and hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Moore.

Philathea Class Group Enjoys Playlets

Hallowe'en features divided with election day, the amusement honors of the latest meeting of Philathea class members of the First Presbyterian church, when they were entertained in the home of Mrs. W. F. DeWolf, 1102 Fruit street.

Co-hostesses with Mrs. DeWolf were Mrs. Paul Vissman, Mrs. Verl VanBenthussen, Mrs. Stanley Clem, Mrs. Theo F. Naill, Mrs. Dale A. Griggs and Mrs. Hiram Curry. Their plans for the entertainment of their guests, almost half a hundred in number, included decorations appropriate to the Hallowe'en season, and a group of impromptu playlets in which guests were divided into competitive groups.

One of these amusing skits purported to be a presidential campaign in which "Silas Perkins," portrayed by Mrs. Miller, ran against "Sammy Sarsaparilla," enacted by Miss Lillie Osborn. Campaign speeches were made not only by the candidates but by their followers, and votes were cast, resulting in a tie between "Silas and Samanthay."

Others equally entertaining included an old time school with its literary society, spelling matches, etc. To complete a highly enjoyable evening, the hostesses served refreshments which emphasized the Hallowe'en motif.

J. O. C. Class

Spending the evening sewing for a needy family instead of having their usual program of games and contests, J. O. C. class members of the First Baptist church were guests Tuesday night of Mrs. Edwin A. Baird, 1302 Orange avenue.

Hostesses with Mrs. Baird were Mrs. Frank Miller, Mrs. Walter Ferris and Mrs. Alice Gilbert. Miss Lula Minter, president, presided over the business session, and Mrs. Miller was in charge of devotionals on the topic, "Service."

Mrs. Albert Hill sang a solo, "I Gave My Life For Thee," after which daughters of members gave a short program. Helen Lowe played piano solos and Carol Miller contributed readings.

Members sewed on numerous articles for a local family, whose needs had been disclosed to the class by the chairman of the Home Missionary work.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening. Twenty-eight members were in attendance.

Torosa Rebekahs Plan Turkey Dinner for Election Day

Election day, according to plans announced today by Torosa Rebekah members, will not be devoted entirely to a contest between the elephant and the donkey, but will have turkey as its allied interest for Santa Ana voters and friends of Torosa lodge, since that group is presiding at a public turkey dinner to be served from 11:30 a. m. until 2 p. m. on that date, November 8.

Mrs. Jean Tremble, head of the committee in charge, has arranged for the roast of several gigantie turkeys to be served with dressing and giblet gravy, mashed potatoes, vegetables, salads, home-made pies and a hot of other good things, to all who come to the dining room of the L. O. O. F. hall on the day in question. A very nominal price has been set for tickets to the feast, and while casual drop-ins will be assured of a welcome and places at the table, yet reservations are asked, especially from those who plan to entertain parties.

These reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Tremble at 3929J, and will simplify duties and responsibilities for her and her volunteer committee.

W. C. T. U.

Holding their meeting a week early because of election day November 8, members of Santa Ana W. C. T. U. met Tuesday afternoon in United Presbyterian church. The president, Mrs. Amy Evans, presided over the meeting, which was devoted almost entirely to talks by candidates to be voted on next week.

Miss Sedalia Cushman was program chairman. W. C. Jerome, candidate for supervisor, gave a short talk and explained a number of the amendments. He answered several questions asked by the union members.

B. Z. McKinney, candidate for congress, spoke on the amendments and on his candidacy for election, as did Frank Harwood, candidate for assembly. Harry C. Westover, local attorney, further explained the amendments.

The Rev. C. D. Hicks, pastor of the Christian and Missionary Alliance church, and chairman of the Board of Strategy, spoke on the work of covering a number of precincts and asked for volunteers to complete the work. He also asked for assistants in checking at the polls.

large squares, preferably hot, spread with jam, the jam topped with a spoonful of whipped cream.

The cake part has a calory total of almost 2000, but there are portions for 12. To the 170-odd add energy calories for the jam and cream.

SOME GOOD FISH STORIES

Will bring home the bacon for you when it comes to cooking fish as the family would like it, if given the chance. I am amazed at the homes where fish is never served, and if occasionally served, never other than the commonplace fried salmon or halibut appears at table.

You may have these recipes free of charge this week if you'll send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing purposes.

ANN MEREDITH

An angel might fear to tread where I am rushing in today, but perhaps I have this edge on the angel; I've been through the mill and know what I'm talking about.

My subject is parental apron strings and I have plenty to say on the subject, far more than my limited space permits.

Just because one is a parent does that entitle that person to spiritual ownership of his child up to the time the child leaves the home roof for one of its own? A child is encouraged to walk early, to develop beauty and strength through athletics, but when it comes to making decisions for himself the child is immediately gathered in and put in cotton wool with a "no, no, mother knows best, you mustn't do that." Let the child make his own decisions even though it means loss of money to the parent, and lots of heartaches. The child must learn sometime and he learns more easily through suffering from his own mistakes than he does from a million "don'ts."

My personal belief is that parents sinfully and wrongfully transgress when they "move in" on their children's lives, using as the excuse that they owe them obedience, etc., because they are their parents. Boah! It is just their love of practicing sabotage on the one individual in all the world that loves them enough to stand for it, they know it, and push it to the extreme. There ought to be an open season on these cannibal parents. What do you think about it?

TODAY'S RECIPE
WHIPPED CREAM CAKE
(an emergency dessert)
2 eggs beaten with
1 scant cup sugar
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon lemon extract
5 tablespoons salad oil
1 cup cake flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
2-3 teaspoon salt
I make this cake so often for dessert and it never fails me. I like to make it because there is no fussy creaming to bother with.

Break the eggs into the mixing bowl and whip well, add sugar and lemon extract and whip again. Measure the oil into a cup, fill the cup with milk. Sift the flour and baking powder, alternate flour with milk in mixing, and when everything is in take the egg beater and whip it briskly for a minute. Bake in thin sheets and serve

PREVIEW TONIGHT AT FOX BROADWAY WITH OPENING LEE TRACY PICTURE

A studio preview, together with the first showing of a new picture featuring Spencer Tracy, of "Blessed Event" fame, will be seen at the Fox Broadway theater tonight. The preview will go on at the screen at 8:30 p. m. between the first and second showing of features.

No information has been received in Santa Ana pertaining to the nature of the preview or its stars. It is a new picture, as yet uncut and is a romance which will be released in the next few weeks.

The theater today starts showing as a regular feature, "Washington Merry-Go-Round," directed by James Cruze.

The plot concerns the dramatic story of a young patriotic congressman in a struggle against the political machinery of Washington, and there is a romance that is interwoven in which Constance Cummings plays a leading role. Travey was never better, critics say, than in the role of the congressman.

All the inside workings of the government—behind the scenes at the capitol and many interesting Washington shots are seen in the new picture.

TWO FEATURES END WEST COAST RUNS

Two big features which opened at the Fox West Coast theater yesterday and their Santa Ana showing today and vaudeville and a new feature are advertised for tomorrow.

The features at the theater today are "Unshamed" starring Helen Twelvetrees, Roland Young, Lewis Stone and Jean Harsholt, and "The Man Called Back" with Conrad Nagle and Doris Kenyon.

Starting tomorrow Charles Bickford will return to the Fox West Coast screen in "The Last Man," a mighty detective story of the high seas. It is not of the gun-shoe variety, however, but a dramatic yarn of modern pirates and a lone man who captures them.

Five acts of vaudeville will be seen on the stage.

Brotherhood To Hear McKinney

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

"This chicken tastes just like home-cooked," said Copsy. "I have never looked at food that looked much better. Pass the gravy, if you please."

The farmer smiled and said, "Well, son, it IS home-cooked, but have your fun. It seems to me you Tinymites are always trying to tease."

Said Scouty, "Sure! I'll tease for more fine chicken, if you won't get sore. And, look! I've found a wishbone. Who is going to wish with me?"

"Right now, though, I will let it dry and we won't wish till by and by. The wish I make is going to be as crazy as can be."

"I'll wish that we have lots of fun upon your farm. We want to run and play until we're all tired out. Then we'll sleep in the hay."

"Why, you don't need to wish for that. I know that hope will not fall flat," exclaimed the friendly farmer. "You can run the live-long day."

All of a sudden Windy spied the flying horse, and loudly cried, "Gee, we must feed our little pet. No doubt it's hungry, too."

"Out in the barn I'm sure I saw a dandy pile of hay and straw. The horse can flop down in a stall and rest when it is through."

Then Windy jumped up from his seat and took the horse out to its stall. Some other horses related a friendly greeting to the beast.

The flying horse said, "While I'm here please, watch me for I sadly fear that I will eat too much because this is a lovely feast."

Outside, the rest were having fun. The farmer watched wee Duncy run up to a fat old pig and promptly jump upon its back. This scared the pig and off it went. A very thrilling time was spent. Poor Duncy was jerked round so much he thought his bones would crack. (Copyright, 1932, NEA Service, Inc.)

(The Tinies use the flying horse for a delivery wagon in the next story.)

Late News From Orange County Communities

SPEAKER TELLS PROTECTION OF G. O. P. TARIFF

GARDEN GROVE, Nov. 3.—"The Protective Tariff" was the subject discussed by George Kneech, speaker at the Republican rally held in the Garden Grove Women's civic clubhouse Tuesday evening.

Mr. Kneech, who is sent out by national Republican headquarters, showed diagrams and charts in regard to the tariff. He also showed pictures of Governor Roosevelt's 25-room house in New York state, declaring he was supposed to be a dirt farmer, but had never been through what the farmers have.

George Van Dyke, Long Beach attorney, pointed out that all Republicans should support President Hoover.

Other speakers were S. E. Kaufman, who spoke in favor of Sam Collins, candidate for congress in the nineteenth district on the Republican ticket; James Utt of Tuellin, Republican candidate for the assembly; Nels T. Edwards, candidate for re-election for state senator, and Howard Irwin, chairman of the county Republican central committee. The latter said Dick Haster, president of the Garden Grove Republican club, had gone to San Diego Tuesday in order to have Mr. Kneech return with him as speaker for the rally.

Miss Jennie Hoover of Garden Grove, who is a cousin of President Hoover, gave a short talk.

Music was furnished by the Santa Ana junior college quartet through the courtesy of Miss Myrtle Martin, superintendent of music. The quartet consists of Bill Fox, Martin Bowman, Ruth-erford Williams and Marjorie Hare, with Duncan Harnois as accompanist.

Announcement was made of the torch light parade to be held in Santa Ana Friday evening at 7 o'clock. Many Garden Grove residents are planning to take part.

Motorist Is Shy About Signing Ticket

LAGUNA BEACH, Nov. 3.—Bennie Jefferson, 23, of Los Angeles required an hour in the city lockup and a heart to heart talk with Police Chief Abe W. Johnson and City Judge M. LeStrange before he could be convinced that signing a traffic ticket was not admitting violation of the law. He refused to sign when stopped by Traffic Officer E. B. Pike on a charge of doing 50 miles per hour in a 25-mile zone. He told the judge he would plead not guilty when his case comes up.

BADGES GIVEN AT PLACENTIA SCOUT DINNER

PLACENTIA, Nov. 3.—Among the Halloween parties that took place here were the Boy Scout dinner affair, sponsored by the Placentia American Legion troop, at the Legion hall, a party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tuffee, given by Norma Tuffee, on North Placentia avenue, and another party given by Patricia Adams and Katherine and Margaret Gilligan on the General Petroleum lease garage.

At the Boy Scout dinner, Dr. Frank Dowling opened the session, and introduced the Scouts, leaders and speakers. Dinner was served by the members of the auxiliary of the post. Introduced were H. E. Douglas, Scoutmaster; Alvin Koenig, assistant Scoutmaster; Howard Clayton, scribe; Roy Hill, patrol leader, and J. Francis Adley, Yorba Linda troop leader.

Speakers of the evening were Earl Denny, commander of the Legion post, who gave an address of welcome; Don Milligan, leader of boys' work at Calvary church; the Rev. Dr. Dowling; the Rev. D. J. Brigham, who spoke on Scouting; Robert H. Seamans, Fullerton Scout executive of Orange county; J. H. Rymer, former Scoutmaster, and As a surprise, the Anaheim drum corp played calls and drills, and Mr. Denny presented the troop with signal flags, standards, belts and covers.

Badges, star Scout emblems, were presented Wallace Teed, Albert Queyrel, Charles Feemster, Nick Bolas was given a first class badge and Melvin Cox and Melvin Barnham, tenderfoot emblems. Charles Feemster received art and swim merit badges, and Albert Queyrel, a troop bugler badge.

M. A. Speer of Huntington Beach talked on "Western Trails." Thirty-five attended the party given at the General Petroleum lease, where Miss Edith Neukom and Miss Fanny Cottom, of Los Angeles, assisted Mrs. Verne Adams and Mrs. Leon Gilligan in entertaining. Halloween games were featured.

Twenty young people attended the party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tuffee.

HOLD SHOWER IN FULLER PARK HOME

FULLER PARK, Nov. 3.—Mrs. Ivan Miller, of Brookhurst road, was the guest of honor at a delightful shower Tuesday evening, given by Mrs. Sam Wiley, of Fullerton, and Mrs. J. Arthur Miller at the home of the latter.

The rooms were decorated with pink, chrysanthemums and blue plumbago. The color scheme of the dining table also was in blue and rose.

Mrs. Edward Stoffel, of Anaheim, won first prize for high score in bridge, and Miss Jerry Woodward of Brea, second high. The honoree was the recipient of many lovely gifts, which were placed on a small table, and opened after the supper.

Those present were Mrs. Kenneth Foster, Mrs. Sam Wiley, Mrs. John King, Mrs. Philip Oswald, Mrs. Lawrence Mitchell, Miss Dorothy Little, Miss Anna McCormick, Miss Lillie Esmay, of Fullerton; Miss Jerry Woodward, of Brea; Mrs. Edward Stoffel, of Anaheim; Mrs. Harlan Miller, Mrs. J. Arthur Miller and the honoree, Mrs. Ivan Miller.

LYON OUTLINES TAX VIEWS TO GROUP IN BREA

BREA, Nov. 3.—Reiterating his stand on equitable distribution of funds in the district, and against the placing and keeping of tax rates at the highest peak, Le Roy Lyon, candidate for supervisor of the third district, talked to nearly 100 taxpayers at Brea American Legion hall last night.

Lyon declared the statement in the Anaheim Bulletin, attributing to himself the assertion he would levy a tax for relief of the unemployed, is incorrect and that he did state concerning relief work, the funds for it should be drawn from the general fund, and applied to constructive work, and not drawn from the gas tax fund and, because of the limited restrictions, placed in labor that is not of value to the county.

Another accusation made by the Bulletin, referring to Lyon, was that Lyon refused to sign the tax committee report of the farm bureau because that report would have reduced the salary of particular friends of Lyon. The candidate said that again was a false statement, and that he refused to sign it because there were false statements in it.

Tells Gas Tax Stand
Asked what stand he would take on the distribution of gas tax funds in cities, Lyon said he was a member of the farm bureau committee that recommended the bureau assisting the cities get an equitable distribution of tax money, and that he would certainly vote that cities get a fair share, and felt that there were enough fair minded men of the board that would swing the thing to fair distribution.

Albert Launer, city attorney for Brea, and for several other cities, told of the futile efforts the city councils had made to get a share of the gas tax monies, and in response to questioning, Lyon declared that the division of such funds, as well as the spending of other funds, should be on a business and not on a political basis.

Answering another question, Lyon said there is an agreement among the supervisors to let the supervisor of the district spend the money in his district as he chooses.

Machine Control
Accusations of outside influence Lyon branded as ridiculous, and Herb Orle, who was one of the defeated candidates at the primary for a place on the supervisory ticket, declared Schumacher is spending enough to get re-elected to absorb his salary for the next term of office. Orle said that there is evidence of so much machine control of newspapers of third district, "it cannot be said we have freedom of the press, but that at least it can be said there is freedom of speech," and that he is fighting Schumacher, incumbent, on three grounds, Schumacher has been too long in office, and has become too vital a cog in the political machine; he is not fair in distribution of gas tax money to the cities, and he assists other supervisors to do business in hidden ways.

John Kellenberger, Anaheim, "also ran" for the office, urged Brea voters, who were strong behind him in the primaries, to back Schumacher, while W. J. Carmichael, who presided at the session, and who also ran on the primary ticket, declared that the machine control runs to Sacramento, and that it would appear third district of Orange county is a vital cog, when Governor Rolph asked men at the courthouse at Santa Ana to support Schumacher in third district.

"And another thing I like about Lyon: he is not afraid to be targeted by questions; I can assure you he will be just as willing to be questioned after holding the office as he is now," Carmichael said, following reiteration of a statement that Schumacher has so far refused to appear in public and answer the charges made by Lyon against the methods of the present board.

Citrus Facts To Be Presented At Session of Center

ORANGETHORPE, Nov. 3.—At the Orangethorpe-Fullerton Farm center meeting in the Orangethorpe school Friday at 7:30 p. m., election of officers will be held.

Edward "Red" Craig, assemblyman from Orange county, will speak on "What the Legislative Questions on the Ballot Propose to Do." The main address of the evening will be given by Holmes Blehop, chairman, citrus department, Orange County Farm bureau. He will speak on "Some Facts Which the Citrus Industry Must Face," Ray J. Starbuck, president, announces.

Placentia C. E. Arrange Social

PLACENTIA, Nov. 3.—The Halloween party for the Young People's Christian Endeavor society of Calvary church will be held at the home of Miss Gladys Jennings on East Sycamore street, between East Street and Placentia avenue tonight.

The committee in charge of party arrangements are Helen Hurst, Miss Jennie, Evelyn Lemons, Morelle Lemons, Doris Berry Howard, Raymond Howard, Franklin Previtt and Lewis Henthorne.

CITY COUNCIL TURNS DOWN PERMIT FOR LAGUNA STABLE

LAGUNA BEACH, Nov. 3.—An echo of the city wide protest last spring over the attempt to establish a riding academy on Coast Boulevard south, at Cypress street, was heard at the city council meeting last night when Wayman Johnson, representing a rodeo club that is in process of organization, applied for a permit to build a stable property just inside the city limits on the Laguna Canyon road. At the time petitions were presented to the council last spring, a city ordinance was amended which denied the right to place more than two horses at any place within the city limits. Attorney Harvey said a special permit could not be issued to Johnson without again amending the ordinance. The permit was denied.

Councilman George W. Wilson, health commissioner, and City Engineer Frank P. Gowen reported that the first hall and the building of the water district were among the ten buildings illegally connected with the old central sewer system. When the system was installed, the buildings and houses named last night were outside of the sewer district. All were connected without a permit. They include the grammar school and the homes of several prominent citizens, one house having been connected for seven years.

On motion of Councilman M. B. McMillan, Councilman Wilson and City Attorney Milton G. Harvey were named as a committee to set an arbitrary amount that each offender must pay for the service had in the past and what each must pay to continue the service.

An ordinance was passed on final reading amending the license ordinance so that owners of all trucks carrying fuel oils and gasoline will be required to pay $25 annually.

Bids for the city printing were ordered advertised. They will be opened at the meeting December 7. Bills amounting to $1555.21 were ordered paid. The report of City Clerk G. W. Prior showed $1233.22 in the general fund as of November 1 and $14,234.65 in all funds. The quarterly report of R. D. Crenshaw & company, which audited the city books and showed all accounts to agree, was accepted.

HARBOR HIGH STAGE DEBATE MUSIC PUPILS ON WRIGHT ACT GIVE PROGRAM IN PLACENTIA

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks black, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Your skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, making them easy to take and making the bile flow freely. Then it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Get a substitute. 25c at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

HOOVER LEADS IN FULLERTON COLLEGE VOTE

FULLERTON, Nov. 3.—Results of the straw ballot taken at junior college and just closed gave Herbert Hoover first place, with 148 votes; Roosevelt, 119 votes, and Norman Thomas, 13 votes.

Fullerton Junior college debating teams have been challenged to meet debaters from the Branch Agricultural college at Cedar City, Utah, some time in March. It has been announced by Dorothea Worsley, forensics manager. It has not been determined whether the team will accept.

The third and final inter-class swimming meet was held at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday, the Fullerton junior college team winning third place. Those participating were Clarence O'Flynn, Edith Janet McLaren and Ida Closs.

Word has been received that Constance Miller, former junior college student, married Joe Boyne of Alberta, Canada, where she returned after school last spring. She was married in October.

The DeMolay chapter is to hold an annual dinner dance Saturday night at Masonic temple. Billy Heger's orchestra will present the music. Members of the dance committee are Ronald Rosenthal, Joe Crook, Paul Herbert and Grant Brown.

TEACHERS AT DINNER

LA HABRA, Nov. 3.—Prof. Frank L. Barrows, supervisor of music in the La Habra schools, entertained at dinner Wednesday night, Miss Mildred Anderson, Miss Charlotte Hewitt, Miss Audrey Miller and Miss Ruth Dickey. A bowl of fruit centered the table and holly berries were used in decoration.

Refuse to back the amendment and to prepare for state control will be a chaotic condition. He said, further, that those who know are convinced that a person who drinks is not accepted as an employee in industrial positions, and to place liquor sales back would imperil lives of many innocent persons because of drunken drivers.

Menard reported on the findings of an investigation of the federal land bank, and said it refused to loan money on property irrigated by the water companies that have as their chief supply gravity water. Louis Jacobson and E. M. Everett were appointed to find the reasons for the discrimination.

Dr. Fay pointed out that to ask for federal repeal or for resubmission of the eighteenth amendment on grounds of lack of enforcement is ridiculous, since it is enforced about as well as other laws, and that for the state to

Dr. Westcott Lectures On November 9

FULLERTON, Nov. 3.—Dr. Regina Westcott resumed her discussion of the topic of "Love" at the parent education lecture at the Fullerton Union High school auditorium yesterday morning. She will again lecture to both men and women November 9 on "Group Pressure." Continuation of the night talks will be each second Wednesday.

In her talk Wednesday she declared that "manners, the first form of expression of personality, should never be taught to a child under 12 years of age; instead teach consideration of others."

"Altruism is the fair exchange for the betterment of each individual interested, and must include courtesy, tolerance, interest, sympathy, friendliness, fraternity, sympathy, devotion, parental love and romantic love."

Mrs. J. A. Williams, wife of Dr. Williams of the college, conducted a discussion hour following the lecture.

OFFICERS FOR GARDEN GROVE CLUB ELECTED

GARDEN GROVE, Nov. 3.—Mrs. Irvine German was re-elected president of the Three N Twenty club at the November meeting held Tuesday afternoon in her home on West Ocean avenue.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Helen Holt, vice president; Mrs. E. W. Edwards, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Goldie Hall, historian.

The next meeting of the club will be in the form of a Christmas party with a gift exchange. Mrs. Goldie Hall was in charge of the program on "Current Events." Mrs. W. W. Perkins gave a review of "White Waters and Black," by Gordon McCreagh. Fall flowers were used for decorations. The hostess served refreshments of jello with whipped cream, cake and coffee on individual trays, which were decorated in a pale green color scheme.

Members present were Messdames Ralph Chaffee, W. W. Perkins, William Harper, C. A. Hall, L. W. Schauer, W. W. Dungan, P. A. Monroe, Wesley Lamb, C. D. Crosby, E. W. Edwards, Andrew Smiley and the hostess.

MERRIAM TALKS TO PLACENTIA CLUB MEMBERS

PLACENTIA, Nov. 3.—A large group of members and guests heard Lieutenant Governor Frank Merriam talk yesterday afternoon at Placentia Round Table club on "Cross Currents in Our Public Life" in which lecture he presented the arguments for pro and con and explained some of the lesser known of the 20 propositions on the ballot at the November 8 election.

In the absence of Mrs. Louis Jacobson, president, Mrs. Leon T. Gilligan, presided at the session. Reports included one by Mrs. Frank Dowling on the luncheon program and by Mrs. J. W. Newell on the business session of the mid-year convention of Orange county Federation of Women's clubs at Placentia last Friday.

The music included piano numbers by William Hampton, who played "Country Gardens" and by Miss Irene Journein, who played "Scherzino," by Moszkowsky, and Richard Kerley and Miss Journein who played "Spanish Dance" by Moszkowsky. They are Grace Dennison Schaffer School of Music at Fullerton. Mrs. Florence Arnold introduced them. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Frank Rosnow, program committeeman.

James P. Clifton, a non-compensated soldier, is to receive assistance from the club.

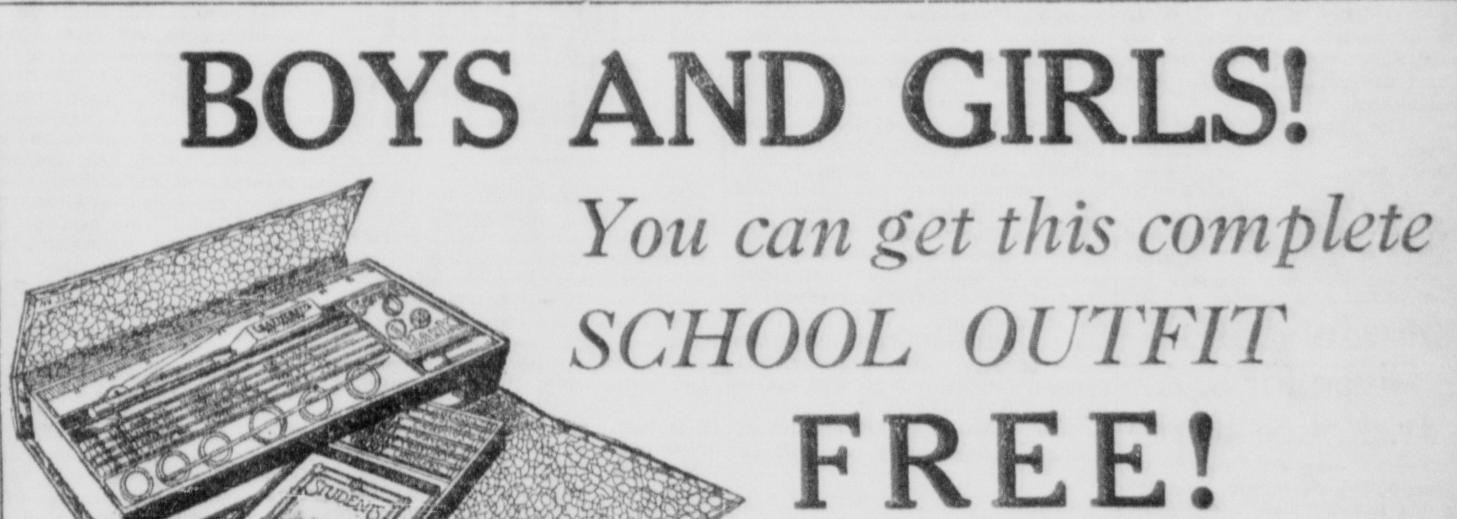

Bookkeeping section will meet with Mrs. C. A. Cuff next Monday with Mrs. Cuff as leader.

Miss Emily Cuff presented current events. The executive board and the board of directors will meet next Tuesday.

Mrs. Arthur Staley and Mrs. Helen Anderson were elected delegates and Mrs. L. T. Gilligan and Mrs. E. K. Kirby alternates to the Southern District convention at Palm Springs November 18.

Conduct Funeral Of John J. Kaub

YORBA LINDA, Nov. 3.—Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the McAulay and Suters Funeral home in Fullerton for John J. Kaub, a resident of Yorba Linda for 20 years, with the Rev. Crawford Trotter, pastor of the Methodist church, and the Rev. Joseph Reece, pastor of the Friends church, in charge. Mr. Kaub, who died at the home of his son, here, where he had resided since coming to California, was born in Pennsylvania in 1833 and died October 28. The body was sent to Overbrook, Kans., for interment.

Carl Aubrey, president of the student body, will extend greetings. The girls' glee club will present a group of selections, as well as the boys' glee club. Evelyn Wieland will give a piano solo. Baxter Gettling will give a reading and Darlene Brickey will deliver a reading.

Greetings will also be extended by Evelyn Mustel, president of E. G. C. club, and Walter Nelson, president of the E. K. L. group. Acrobatic dancing will be a feature of the evening. Members of the faculty and Superintendent of Schools and Mrs. Frank A. Henderson will be introduced.

NATIVE SON OF ANAHEIM DIES THIS MORNING

ANAHEIM, Nov. 3.—A native son of Anaheim, Herman Hunsaker, 61 years of age, passed away early this morning at his home after a two weeks illness. He has lived in Anaheim all his life and was employed as a barber at the Star Barber shop on South Lemon street.

He is survived by two brothers, Henry and Otto, both of Anaheim, and a sister, Mrs. William Franz, also of Anaheim.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon in the chapel of Hilgenfeld Funeral parlors. The Rev. H. G. Schmelzer of the Zion Lutheran church will officiate at the service. Interment will be made in the Anaheim cemetery. The pall bearers will be Edward Benner, William Berdrow, William Kroeger, Louis Kroeger, Carl Martin and Emil Claus.

JEROME SPEAKS TO UTILITY EMPLOYEES

W. C. Jerome, candidate for supervisor for Santa Ana, talked to a large group of employees of the Edison company at a meeting this morning in the Edison plant on Washington street. Jerome, former county auditor and civic leader, confined his remarks to issues of the campaign.

Yesterday Jerome addressed employees of the Southern Counties Gas company.

Jerome discussed the amendments to the state constitution which are to be voted on at a meeting of a group of women of the United Presbyterian church Tuesday.

Entertainment To Be Given for S. A. Jr. Police Force

Junior police of Santa Ana are to have a night all their own, according to plans completed today by Chief of Police F. W. Howard, who will entertain the some 65 or 70 police youths.

Entertainment will be furnished at the Fox West Coast theater, where 70 seats have been reserved for the first show on the night of November 4. At this time the youths will see a detective picture, "The Last Man," starring Charles Bickford and Constance Cummings. It is a plot set on the high seas, with a detective turning crook in order to land his man.

The junior police will meet at the police station and march to the theater in a body.

Police News

Thieves who broke into an unattended apartment owned by Mrs. Florence Hicks, of 526 A South Fulton street, stole a rug and a table runner some time in the past few days according to a report she made to the city police last night.

Amelia Rios, 40, Anaheim woman, was arrested last night at her home on Fourth street and charged with a drunk charge. She was lodged in the county jail.

Police were today seeking a driver of a car which last night struck a car owned by Dr. John Wehrly, parked in front of 220 1-2 North Broadway, and then dashed away without stopping. The car was damaged and the bumper left in the street. The Wehrly car also was damaged.

Dallas Preble, 37, Santa Ana before today was arrested by Santa Ana police officer, and lodged in the county jail on a drunk charge.

MINSTRELS OF KWANIS CLUB LUNCH FEATURE

Eleven members of the Santa Ana Kwanis club who constitute the minstrel group that presented an elaborate program at the recent Kwanis party, were featured as entertainment at the regular club meeting held yesterday noon in Ketter's cafe.

The group staged a regular show, with singing and comic numbers being presented. Members of the group are: Charles Walker, Roy George, Orlyn Robertson, Dr. K. H. Sutherland, Don Rice, Dr. Harry Huffman, O. A. Haley, Jerry Hall, Ellis Diehl and Fred Crowell. Art Cannon assisted at the piano.

George Wells, program chairman of the day, introduced Frank A. Henderson, city superintendent of schools, who discussed the various state constitutional amendments which will be voted on at the November 8 election.

W. C. Jerome, candidate for supervisor in this district, and D. K. Hammond, principal of the Santa Ana high school, were introduced as guests.

The meeting yesterday was marked by an unusual attendance, according to Secretary W. B. Martin, with 81 present at the luncheon.

CAST SELECTED FOR COMMUNITY PLAY

Announcing the completion of the cast for Molnar's play, "The Swan," with which Santa Ana Community Players will launch their 1932-33 season, Gladys Simpson Shaffer, director, today indicated that rehearsals would be held at frequent intervals in preparation for the production dates of Friday and Saturday, November 18 and 19.

Castings for "The Swan" have been attended with many difficulties, according to the director, chief among which was the securing of a sufficient number of Community Players to fill the demand for a score of characters. Results show a pleasing mingling of those whose work in earlier productions have won them a following, with others who will appear in their first Community play, although many have achieved success in high school and college dramas.

The completed cast in the order of appearance in the play, is composed of Warren Duncan as "Dr. Nicholas Arlt," Duncan Harnole as "Robert Forney" as "Georg," and "Arson," sons of Princess Beatrice; Mona Summers Smith as "Princess Beatrice;" Clara Kate Owens as "Alexandra," her daughter; Leon Eckles as "Father Hyacinth," brother of the princess; Gertrude Horn as "Smythson," her sister; Burr Shaffer as "Col. Albert," John Tammann as "Prince Count Lutzen;" Wylie Carlisle as "Caesar;" Charles Morgan as "Alfred;" Constance Cruickshank as "Countess Sibemsteyn;" Mary Saffey as "The Governor's wife;" Julia Hyde as "Princess Maria Dominica;" Bee Dee Spaulding as "Countess Eddely;" Ellen Carroll as the maid, John Hoy and John Schrier as lackeys.

"The Swan" is played in three acts, occurring in the morning room of the castle of the Princess Beatrice; in the ball room late that evening, and in the salon of the guest suite early the following morning. Its demands are for settings and costumes, and it promises to be one of the most spectacular of the plays ever given by the local group.

Rehearsals are being held in the home of Mrs. Charles Riggs, 301 Spurgeon street, and as each act is rehearsed in shape, it is rehearsed on the stage of Ebell clubhouse, where the final rehearsals will be held.

TOASTMASTERS IN POLITICAL DEBATE

Oratory deluxe was released last night at the Toastmasters' club in its weekly meeting, in a warmly contested debate centering on the idea that the Republican party should be returned to office at the coming election on the strength of its record of achievement.

The tariff, unemployment, depression, refinancing, special interests, the common people, foreign relations and various other campaign items came up for un-gloved consideration. William Iverson, A. A. Brock and Harry LeBarde were the advocates of Republican doctrine, and they were cordially and eloquently opposed by Dr. C. E. Raley, Dr. Edward Larson, and Arthur J. Woodworth. Walter Sorenson wielded the gavel and maintained good order in the heat of the debate.

PARADE PRIZE IS GIVEN TO JOBLESS

ANAHEIM, Nov. 3.—Having entered the Halloween parade because of belief in the community enterprise and the having won second prize in the parade, a man who is unemployed, the cash prize awarded to the Motor Transit state system was yesterday turned over to the unemployed workers league, Jack Harrington, local agent announced yesterday.

Following the policy of goodwill shown to the community, this second gesture on the part of the company is in accordance with its belief in the type of work that the unemployed league is doing.

COUNTY DENTISTS MEET AT ORANGE

The regular monthly meeting of the Orange County Dental Society was held last night in the American Legion clubhouse in Orange.

The speaker of the evening was Dr. Arthur Meigs of Long Beach who initiated the dental hygiene program in that city. His talk centered around the work accomplished in dental health education. He cited figures to prove the benefits of the dental program. The speaker showed films depicting the work that is being carried on in Long Beach schools.

At the close of the talk, members of the society discussed the feasibility of initiating a similar program in Orange county. Mrs. Marvin, president of the Orange county P. T. A. and Mrs. Kelsey, chairman of the welfare committee, pledged the support of their organization in establishing a dental health program in this county.

Through President Rutledge, the services of the chamber of commerce were extended to the merchants' association representatives, in continuing the line of endeavors that the association has started. The association was offered the fullest cooperation of the chamber of commerce, according to Rutledge.

The meeting took the form of a general discussion of problems and a decision as to the merchants' association again becoming a merchants' division of the chamber of commerce was reached. Further conferences will be held, it was indicated.

POSTPONE TRIAL ON CHECK CHARGE

Scheduled to go to trial Tuesday on a charge of issuing a worthless check to the Balboa Hardware and Marine Supply Company, A. O. Hunsaker and his son, O. K. Hunsaker, appeared before Superior Judge James L. Allen and waived their statutory rights to trial within 30 days and were granted a postponement until December 19. O. K. Hunsaker, his father, A. O. Hunsaker, who is ill in a Los Angeles hospital was represented by an attorney. It was because of the elder Hunsaker's illness that the postponement was granted.

Granting the continuance Judge Allen declared the elder Hunsaker's bond forfeited and a bench warrant issued. At the time he instructed that it be not served at this time and said that the order was made to keep the record straight.

Both Hunsakers are at present awaiting action on their pleas of probation in connection with two felonies of grand theft and violation of the Corporate Securities Act and asked for probation. Hearings on the probation pleas were set for October 20 and continued until November 17.

NEW SUGAR BEET VARIETY SUCCESS

Plant breeders of the United States Department of Agriculture have again demonstrated their ability to meet the challenge of a disease threatening an important commercial crop in this country.

According to the farm editor's office, which represents the United States Department of Agriculture in Orange county, a new sugar beet variety, U. S. No. 1, has been developed for resistance to the curly top disease, which has been severe in several western states. The department explains that although the new beet is far from perfect, it has shown sufficient resistance to the disease to indicate that it can withstand this disease and still be a profitable crop for the grower. The department does not have any of this seed for general distribution.

The curly top resistant variety was tested in Idaho, Utah, California and New Mexico in 1930 and again in Colorado in 1931. In these trials, U. S. No. 1 was markedly superior in resistance to any of the commercial varieties of sugar beets with which it was compared. It yielded from 12 to 18 tons an acre, while the commercial varieties grown in Colorado yielded from 7 to 14 tons. In sugar content and purity it compares favorably with the commercial varieties.

ASK MERCHANT GROUP RETURN TO BOOST BODY

Representatives of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, the Business Men's association and the Santa Ana Merchants' association, formerly the merchants' division of the chamber of commerce, met last night in the chamber offices to discuss means of bringing the merchants' association back as a unit of the chamber of commerce.

The chamber of commerce was represented at the meeting by President Charles Rutledge, Fred Forgy, Harry Hanson, J. P. Baumgartner, the merchants' association by H. E. Willard, president, James Harding and Walter Swannberger; while the business men's association was represented by President Herbert Rankin, Fred Newcomb and W. D. Ranney.

Through President Rutledge, the services of the chamber of commerce were extended to the merchants' association again becoming a merchants' division of the chamber of commerce was reached. Further conferences will be held, it was indicated.

REQUEST AUTOS FOR USE ELECTION DAY

A communication received today from the state Republican headquarters revealed that the Orange County Young Men's Republican club has received recognition as being the outstanding club in Southern California through its activities. The letter was directed to Homer Chaney, president of the club.

Lloyd Banks, a leader in the club, today made a request for automobiles that can be used to carry voters to the polls on election day. Anyone desiring to furnish transportation for the voters is asked to call Chaney at 140 or Banks at 2869.

ELECTION PARTY TO BE GIVEN BY ELKS

Officers of Santa Ana Elks' lodge today were completing plans for staging a big election party which will be held on November 8 in connection with a special social program featuring an address by the Grand Exalted Ruler of the Elks, Judge Floyd E. Thompson, of Moline, Illinois.

The message of Judge Thompson will be given to local members through the medium of an electrical transcription and to all of the 1500 lodges in the United States at the same hour, 11 p. m. It was announced by Exalted Ruler Gilbert P. Campbell of the local lodge.

Will Give Lecture Series for Nurses

The first of a series of lectures on "Ethics for Nurses" by the Rev. James Cunningham, C. S. P., is to be given Sunday evening, November 6, at 7:30 o'clock in St. Joseph's hospital. All Orange county nurses are invited to attend this meeting and the series of lectures to follow each afternoon at 3 o'clock and each evening at 7:30 o'clock through November 9.

SOUTH CLAIMS LITERARY LEADERSHIP

Impressions must continually be revamped if they are to be at all correct. New York was for years the mecca of ambitious young people starting out on a literary career. Some of them went on to Paris, from which distance they wrote about America. Then there was a swing back to the small towns of America, and today there are definite literary centers "far from the maddening crowd." Such an one is Santa Fe, New Mexico. There are other groups elsewhere in the southwest, while in the southeast there are several centers of literary folk which are becoming famous.

The other day in Charleston, S. C., a large number of writers living in the south held a "literary house party." Mr. Adams, the editor of the New York Times Book Review, told the gathering that the best writing in the United States is being done in the south. Southern novelists, whom he praised, were William Faulkner, Ellen Glasgow, Elizabeth Madox Roberts, Du Bose Heyward, Julia Peterkin, and Marjorie Chapman (Stanton and Mary Chapman). Mr. Adams said that a reason for the south's supremacy in letters was the retired life led by the southern writers "protected from the hubbub of the great market center of New York, and with leisure to think."

Some profess to see in the literary vitality in the south evidence of the continued revival of the old south. The south has a remarkable list of historical makers of American history. Looking over the list of those who established our government and led during its first years, one is impressed with the leadership afforded by the south. The Civil war dealt a blow to that leadership. On the surface it has seemed that the south has largely recovered, as far as it could. It was the easier to believe it was so because it was thought that the south would never be what it was in the slave days.

But with the contributions of the south to literature, history, biography and fiction in the last few years, one inclines to the belief that the south may once again attain the place of proud leadership which it held before the Civil war.

It is interesting to watch the development. It is said of Greece that its wonderful civilization was founded upon slavery and that otherwise it would not have been possible. In proof, it is pointed to the south where civilization apparently changed when there were no longer slaves. It may well be proved that the culture and civilization of the south was in no way dependent upon human slaves. The south has not yet completely recovered from the Civil war. It is already claiming national leadership in the field of literature.

MORE EMPLOYEES AND MORE MARKET

We like the idea that is being emphasized and is being carried out in many institutions of a "share the work" program. The division of the work that needs to be done among all the workers would come, of course, far from solving the problem before us, but it would be a step in the right direction, providing in turn, there was such an arrangement made that each worker would have sufficient for his sustenance.

It would only be a step between sharing the work with all the workers, and speeding up the shops and factories to increase the amount of work needed. To be sure, the splitting of the labor of a man who is, we may say, getting $35 a week, with another man, so that each of them gets $17.50, practically amounts to the man who is now receiving his $35, making a contribution each week to the other man of half his wage, and this would not improve the situation very greatly. But it would improve it if by the work being divided, each could insist on getting enough to support himself and family. There is work which needs to be done; there is increasing demand for goods; people have gone through a long period of wearing out their old material, and from all parts of the nation come the news of increased employment.

Great multitudes are in need, the factories are idle, and the raw material is at hand. All desire to do their part to make the circuit complete, and the one thing which is required is the medium of exchange. Certainly the intelligence of the people and our Congress and national leaders should be able to lay out a program which will supply this one thing necessary. We might as well frankly admit that some form of inflation is absolutely a requisite.

PRESIDENT HOOVER MAKES STRONG APPEAL TO WEST

According to reports from all over the country, the President is gaining ground in almost every state. It has to be acknowledged that nearly all the evidences up until the last two weeks have been favorable to his opponent. And even at this writing, it looks a little more likely for his opponent to be elected, than that the President will be re-elected.

The speeches of the President, with his fine personal appeal, and the business interest of the country expressing itself, for the most part, as being more favorable to Mr. Hoover, and believing that it would strengthen the business interest to have him continue, is having a great effect upon the voters.

Mr. Hoover's address last night, directed more particularly to the people of California, unquestionably found fine response among the people. Mr. Hoover has undoubtedly, through the addresses he has delivered, resold himself to literally hundreds of thousands of voters. While he acknowledged he had a long ways to go, he has gone a large part of that distance. If he wins out on Tuesday, he himself, in his addresses, has been the main factor in it.

NOTED HUMANITARIAN COMING TO SANTA ANA

The people of Santa Ana are to have an unusual opportunity on Monday evening, in the appearance of Rabbi Magnin, who will address the citizens in the auditorium of the high school. Dr. Magnin comes under the auspices of the National Welfare and Relief Mobilization.

He is one of the best known men in this section of the country, an able speaker, and a fine humanitarian. His interest is in men and women. The presentation of the great cause in which we are all interested, and to which this noted clergyman is giving so unsparingly of himself, will be presented to us in its true relationship to other activities of life.

In the midst of the hullabaloo of politics, let us show the interest that Santa Anans have in the worth-while things of life by greeting Rabbi Magnin with a large audience on Monday evening.

BEER CONSUMPTION DECREASES

Beer consumption in Germany decreased during the fiscal year, 1931-1932, 17.3 liters per capita, according to a recent dispatch from the Reich's Bureau of Statistics. A liter equals about 1 3/4 pints. Furthermore, the export of beer decreased nearly 8,000,000 marks. It has been rumored for some time that temperance had increased perceptibly in Germany. This is undeniable evidence.

The decrease in the consumption of beer is also partly due, undoubtedly to the increased interest in the body. It was bound to come, along with the nudist cult.

The journalist reporting the Reich figure said that young Germany was keeping its waist line down with exercise and the girth of the older generation was likely to contract with the decrease in the consumption of beer. A beer pouch is as inharmonious with nudism as is intoxication with automobile driving.

NEW ELECTRIC CHAIR

Germany has a new type of electric chair, designed for comfort. Heating elements like those of an electric warming pad are concealed in the cushion of several types of chairs. Electrically warmed footstools have also been constructed. The new contrivances will serve several purposes. They should bring comfort to people troubled with rheumatism and also to elderly persons. A dispatch suggests that they will also be used in chilly waiting rooms.

Experience indicates that people and organizations which keep their waiting rooms cold wouldn't be inclined to install warmed chairs, since they haven't warmed the rooms. Anyhow, California doesn't need a substitute for sunshine.

Socialist Party as New Puzzle

The Riverside Enterprise Closing weeks of the campaign have developed a strange drift toward Norman Thomas, Socialist party candidate for President.

Socialist leaders are claiming more than 2,000,000 votes in the November election. For the first time in a Presidential campaign Socialist speakers have taken to the radio on a nation-wide scale. Thomas made a transcontinental tour, speaking in many cities. The press associations are according him a rather generous amount of wire space.

But it is in the straw votes conducted in 47 colleges and universities by the Daily Princetonian that Thomas' strength is suddenly widely advertised to the country.

The poll stands:
Hoover 29,238.
Roosevelt 18,212.
Thomas 10,470.

The United Press conducted a poll in 28 colleges and universities and reports the following results:

Hoover 18,159.
Roosevelt 9,615.
Thomas 7,304.

Leaders of both the Republican and Democratic parties are suddenly asking themselves what this unexpected element in the campaign may mean.

In other elections some colleges have shown socialist tendencies, but never on the scale revealed in these polls.

The Socialist campaign holds out the hope to those of socialist tendencies that there is an opportunity to alter the old bi-party system of government and make it a tri-party system.

The socialist appeal to the masses is for votes of protest against both the Republican and the Democratic parties. The Socialist leaders boldly proclaim they have no thought of victory—that is not their goal. They want to roll up a great vote of several millions as a demonstration of protest against both major parties and to lay the foundation for the ultimate development of the Socialist party so that it will be able to have an actual voice in government. The argument of the Socialists is that voters who desire to register a protest should support the Socialist party with the pledge that by 1936 it should be a party to be reckoned with.

The candidate of the party—Norman Thomas—is not a wild-eyed soap-box orator. He is a recognized student of public affairs.

It is not probable that the Socialist party will ever become a major party—at least not in this decade. The traditions of membership in the Republican and Democratic parties are not easily thrown off. Probably the Socialist party answer is that political trends are developing more swiftly in this age than in any other and that no one has the right to forecast there cannot be quickly developed a third major party.

Charging for Permission to Inspect
Big Liner

The San Bernardino Sun One way to make the great ocean liners profitable is to open them to the inspection of paying visitors between voyages. The new Italian liner Rex contributed $7500 to seamen's charities one day recently. At its pier in the North river in New York it was visited by 15,000 persons paying 25 cents apiece for the privilege of wandering along its decks and through its gorgeous lounging and recreation rooms. It could perhaps have held open house profitably for several days. Then, if it had moved to another city and another pier, the whole thing could have been repeated.

There is something fascinating about a great ship, even to landlubbers.

A FOOTNOTE TO HISTORY

Marco Polo, when he made his trip to China, wasn't seeking for the welfare of mankind. He had heard of heaps of money in that land of milk and honey. And he fancied it might not be hard to find. The ruler of the country seemed to like him, and poured abundant riches in his lap. So when he came home and told of all the gold that he'd got hold of. The land of far Cathay got on the map.

C. Columbus, when he crossed the broad Atlantic, wasn't hunting for another hemisphere. But was haunted by the notion That beyond the Western ocean This Mongolian Golconda might appear. He never gained the fortune he was seeking, But the story of his travels got around; Montezuma lost the treasure He'd amassed in ample measure, And that was how America was found.

Julius Caesar, when he heard of distant cities Which had never sent their tribute down to Rome, Sent his bolter-plated legions Into these tight-fisted regions, And soon he had their treasure stored at home. We are told that we owe much to brains and culture, But when I beside my evening hearth fire sit And peruse the thrilling story Of man's rise to greater glory, I think that greed has helped out, quite a bit.

PARAGRAPHS

By Robert Quillen

Senator Long would limit incomes to a million a year. Another good idea would be to limit the annual hatch of the dodo. America takes the credit, but the use of heat to make a permanent wave seems to have originated in Africa. You can recognize a wooden head by its sound of "Oke." Conditions haven't changed. The thing that tried old Job's patience most was the advice of his dumb friends. By all means have a referendum before declaring war. Then let those who favor it do the fighting and pay the bill.

ONE REASON WHY OLD-TIMERS TOOK A BROADER VIEW OF THINGS WAS BECAUSE BILLBOARDS DIDN'T INTERFERE.

The solution is simple. When men parole or acquit a criminal, make them financially responsible for the next damage he does.

It's a comfort to know that the "impoverished rich" still are willing to lend the Government two billion.

When you think of the bonds that posterity must pay off, it's hard to think up an argument against birth control.

AMERICANISM: Treating swindlers as great men if they are very rich; wondering why the fear of public opinion no longer keeps men straight.

You can't be nobly born, but you can be very righteous and get the same superior-to-mankind feeling.

An honest thinker is one who realizes that his speeding is just as "lawless as the other man's bootlegging."

The other fellow's pet sin is awful; your own can't be very bad because you're such a nice man in spite of it.

IT IS STILL RATHER DIFFICULT TO MEET OUR BEST PEOPLE UNLESS YOU ARE A BOOTLEGGER OR A BILL COLLECTOR.

The only sure thing about the rise and fall of the stock market is that there is no reason for it.

You can't help wondering what else our public servants would have done if they had been enemies.

You see, our debtors can't be given a 75 per cent discount because they live on the wrong side of the Atlantic.

A new supreme court isn't pork. You can tell pork by the fact that it makes rival regions beef.

CORRECT THIS SENTENCE: "HE IS A GREAT PHILANTHROPIST," SAID THE WOMAN, "SO I KNOW HE WON'T PUT US OUT JUST BECAUSE WE CAN'T PAY THE RENT."

Thoughts On Modern Life

REVIVING THE WAR MOOD

I suppose I have broken my lance as often as any American in the protest against the uglier aspects of the mood that falls upon men during war time.

Today, however, without taking back any of the things I have said respecting the liabilities of the war mood, I suggest that we need something of the mood men have when they wage wars if we are to beat our way promptly back to prosperity.

Yesterday I outlined six marks of the mood men have in war time. Today I want to indicate how men reverse these six aspects of the war mood when depression strikes them.

(1) Emotions that rise to a state of exaltation in time of war grow sullen and discouraged in a time of depression.

(2) The certainty of aim that dominates men in war time is missing in a time of depression when every man on every street corner hawks a separate objective for the social and economic order.

(3) The mass dedication to a common cause that war evokes does not appear in a time of depression when every man goes gunning for his own best advantage.

I am quite aware of the magnificent public service many Americans are rendering just now, but there is no common sense of crusade comparable to that which animated us in war days.

(4) Nagging criticism of public men and public policies, adjoined in large measure during war time, runs at full tilt in time of depression.

(5) Men tend to pull apart in a time of depression.

(6) And leadership is followed far less in days of depression than days of war.

I submit that, if we could recapture for the war on depression something of the spirit that animated us during our participation in the World War, we might make short work of the current economic retardation.

We can lick the depression! Let's pull our spirits together in a vast and unified national crusade to that end. Let's simplify and agree upon our objective. Let's declare a moratorium on petty partisan criticism of men and measures. Let's follow our leadership in the year ahead whether it be Hooverism or Rooseveltism.

BEAUTIFYING SCHOOLS

School ought to be a lovely place. Children thrive best in beautiful surroundings. That does not mean elegant surroundings. Things can be beautiful without being elegant, or expensive, or loud. Beauty is always best when dressed in simplicity.

A school building ought to be long and low, spread out on the grass like a brooding hen. Vines should shade the walls and old trees shade its grounds. Flowering shrubs should snuggle in the corners where children's feet do not reach them, and tucked in about their roots the spring bulbs should flourish.

The inside of the building is where children live. That means clean as brush and cleansing water can make them. The furniture should be smooth, its fair surface unmarred. The chairs and benches ought to be comfortable. It costs no more to supply a comfortable bench than to buy one that makes a child hunch and huddle and squirm to find a comfortable angle in it.

There must be plenty of light and air. A dark room with poor ventilation is never beautiful. The closets and wardrobes should be sufficient and they should be convenient. When hooks are higher than children's heads they cannot hang their things on them and they use the floor instead. What ever makes for cleanliness, order, convenience, and comfort will make the classroom and the school a beautiful place to live. This is a good time to check up on paint and washing powders, furniture and equipment. Where the children live ought to be a place of beauty.

On November 3, 1918, the American army continued its advance north of Verdun, capturing several towns. Franco-Belgian troops came within five miles of Ghent. The Austrian army was in collapse as the Italians took Trent and Trieste. Italian cavalry entered Udine as an armistice was declared. The Serbian army occupied Belgrade.

In an effort to raise the morale of his people, Kaiser Wilhelm announced his support of governmental reforms, by which the Reichstag was given greater authority.
